REBELS SEND 150 PLANES INTO BATTLE IN ARAGON

BELCHITE IS GOAL OF LOYALIST ARMY

City 20 Miles South of Zaragoza Reported Surrounded—Attempt to Take It Before New Franco Units Arrive.

By the Associated Press. HENDAYTE, French-Spanish Frontier, Aug. 30.—Both insurgent and Government forces fighting on the northeastern Spanish front claimed victory today in a land and air battle near Belchite, 20 miles south of Zaragoza.

Insurgent dispatches declared that the Government offensive in Aragon had been smashed by an attack of 150 planes, including 40 bombers, which took off from the insurgent stronghold at Zaragoza. The Government reported, however, that Belchite was surrounded and that insurgent control of Zaragoza was threatened by further Government advances.

A Valencia defense ministry announcement said that each side had only one plane in the air fight. Belchite was apparently the immediate Government objective in an effort to make important gains before Generalissimo Francisco Franco could rush reinforcements from the Balearian front near Santander.

Insurgent troops were said to be making the Government forces with machine gun fire and an insurgent radio report placed Government losses at 30,000 for the last week.

The insurgent air fleet was said to have cleared Government planes from the region and to have attacked Government troop concentrations, ammunition dumps and supply depots.

New Government advances on the Teruel front, farther south of Zaragoza, were reported by Government dispatches which said troops of the Madrid-Valencia administration were moving toward Teruel, southern edge of the insurgent wedge aimed at cutting off Madrid and Valencia.

On the same front, Government forces moved toward Valdecañas, meeting a heavy insurgent counter-attack, while Government artillery and infantry attacked Buena, north of Teruel.

Insurgent pressure on the Guadalajara lines northeast of Madrid was reported, and an artillery fight was heard in Madrid throughout the day. A few shells were fired into the city.

Mopping Up at Santander. The insurgents said mopping-up operations were being continued after the capture of Santander and that only the Asturias remained in Government hands in the northwest.

Loss of the port of Santander was officially recognized in a Government statement.

The newspaper La Voz said that 21 Italian Generals participated in the drive on Santander, including "Berenguer, the Spanish champion of the great Battle of Guadalajara."

Insurgent forces routed at Guadalajara several months ago were reported to be composed largely of Italians.

EAST FLORIDA COAST HIT BY 50-MILE WIND STORM

Minor Damage Reported Between Daytona Beach and St. Augustine.

By the Associated Press. DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Aug. 30.—Winds reaching 50 miles an hour whipped the Florida east coast between here and St. Augustine today as a small tropical storm moved inland from the Atlantic Ocean.

The Weather Bureau at Jacksonville said the storm center crossed the coastline about 10 a. m. between Ormond Beach and Flagler Beach. The disturbance was expected to blow itself out in rain squalls over northeastern Florida this afternoon.

Only minor property damage was done. Trees were toppled and streets littered with small debris. A 40-foot temporary tower here used by the State Firemen's Association for instruction purposes was blown down.

High seas pounded the coast but the Coast Guard reported no distress calls.

The rain and wind caused temporary failure of power and communication facilities, but service soon was restored here and at other coastal points affected.

BOY WADER, 9, DROWNS IN SMALL LAKE IN COUNTY

Three Companions Run for Help but It Arrives too Late.

Charles, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. V. B. Wright, 922 Meritt avenue, Rock Hill, S. C., today drowned about 2 o'clock this afternoon when he stepped into deep water when wading in a small lake north of Litzinger road and west of Lay road, St. Louis County.

He had gone to the lake with three other boys, James Bowers, 11, and Joseph, 7, who live at 9237 Meredith avenue. They were sitting on the bank when the boy pushing a small raft, waded nude into the lake.

When they saw him disappear, knowing that he could not swim, they ran three blocks to the home of Clyde and Harry McLaughlin, 1544 Mentor avenue, Rock Hill, for help. The McLaughlin brothers recovered the body. Fire Chief Frank DeVeto of Brentwood attempted artificial respiration until Maplewood firemen brought an inhalator. Efforts to revive the boy failed.

NEW TRIAL OF EX-CONVICT ON TRAFFIC CHARGES SOUGHT

City Counselor's Office Makes Motion; Error by Provisional Judge Godfrey Alleged.

A motion for new trial in the case of Roy John Conrad, former convict, who was discharged in Court of Criminal Correction Thursday, by Dewey S. Godfrey, former chairman of the Democratic City Committee, who was sitting as a Provisional Judge in the absence of Judge Joseph L. Conrad, was filed today by the City Counselor's office.

The motion asserted the evidence was ample to convict Conrad, also known as Konrad, on six traffic charges, including one for driving without a license, which had been appealed from Police Judge Edward M. Ruddy's court, where he had been found guilty. Error was charged to the court in sustaining Conrad's motion for dismissal of the charges as well as in excluding competent evidence offered by the city and admitting incompetent evidence in behalf of Conrad.

9 CENTS A POUND LOAN RATE FIXED ON COTTON CROP

Commodity Credit Corporation Announces Schedules Following Action by Congress.

3 CENT SUBSIDY FOR NEXT YEAR

This Will Apply to Producers Who Agree to Acreage Control—$130,000,000 Available.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Commodity Credit Corporation officials announced today the Government would make loans of 9 cents a pound on this year's cotton crop.

They also announced plans to pay a subsidy not exceeding 3 cents a pound to producers complying with next year's production control program.

The subsidy, it was announced, will be paid on only 65 per cent of this year's basic acreage. It will be paid next year after the growers have complied with the control program.

Loans, the Commodity Credit Corporation said, will be 9 cents a pound on cotton classing seven-eighths inch middling cotton, or better; 8 cents on thirteen-sixteenths inch staple and middling or better in grade; seven and three-quarters cents on seven-eighths inch staple of less than middling grade.

Requirements for loan. No loan will be made on thirteen-sixteenths inch cotton under middling grade. The loans will bear interest at the rate of 4 per cent and will mature on July 31, 1938. To be eligible for loans cotton must be stored in warehouses approved by the Commodity Credit Corporation. The loans will be available as soon as the necessary arrangements can be completed, but not later than Sept. 15.

A condition of each loan is that the producer-borrower must agree to participate in and comply with the 1938 adjustment program.

The R. F. C. has authorized a loan of $130,000,000 to the corporation for the cotton loan program. Action Follows Agreement.

Today's action was a result of a hurried agreement during the late days of Congress between the White House and Senate and House leaders. It provided that presidential approval for the cotton loan program would be followed by action on crop control legislation when Congress reconvenes either in special or regular session.

Congress in the closing days of the last session authorized the cotton loan program. The program was designed to provide for a cotton price adjustment program on the basis of the new figure.

The amount of the individual payment will depend on the level of the cotton prices at the time the producer sells.

On proof of compliance with the yet to be enacted 1938 agricultural program cotton producers who sell prior to July 1, 1938, will be paid the difference between 12 cents a pound and the average price of seven-eighths inch middling on the 10 spot markets on the day of sale. In no event, however, will the subsidy exceed 3 cents a pound.

FRANCO CONSIDERS EXPULSION OF FRENCH FROM SPAIN

Retaliation Contemplated for French Action in Expelling Insurgents Along Basque Coast.

By the Associated Press. SAINT JEAN-DE-LUZ, France, Aug. 30.—Spanish insurgent sources said today all French residents had been warned to be ready to leave insurgent Spanish territory on 24 hours' notice.

Insurgent Generalissimo Franco was reported to be considering the expulsion of all Frenchmen in retaliation for France's action in ousting a group of Spanish insurgents living along the French Basque coast.

French police ordered out nine Spanish insurgents Aug. 19 and indicated there would be other expulsions.

The action was taken after what was termed the capture of a Spanish Government oil tanker in French waters by young insurgents.

WHO BEAT UNION OFFICER? I DID, BOASTS CLEANER

Edward F. Pahl, Chain Shop Proprietor, Says He Flogged M. A. McLoughlin Who Accuses Police.

VICTIM AND LAWYER DENY THIS VERSION

Formal Complaint Against Two Members of Force Filed With Board for Investigation.

Who flogged Matthew A. McLoughlin, secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Cleaners and Dye House Workers Local No. 20, puncturing his left ear drum, loosening front teeth and inflicting bruises on his head, back, abdomen and arms which now confine him in Jewish Hospital?

Edward F. Pahl, proprietor of a chain of cleaning shops, which McLoughlin's union has been trying to unionize, came forward today glorifying in a statement to reporters that he had flogged McLoughlin last Thursday afternoon in a fight behind one of his shops at 1430 North Taylor avenue.

McLoughlin, and his attorney, Morris J. Levin, denied the truth of Pahl's statement and repeated that McLoughlin had been beaten by two detectives at police headquarters last Thursday night while being questioned in an investigation of window smashing at the Pahl cleaning plants.

Levin said McLoughlin was at the union's headquarters, 4114A Easton avenue, at the time that Pahl's statement was made. McLoughlin, and a number of union members saw him there.

Police deny charges. The policemen who questioned McLoughlin at Police Headquarters have denied that they mistreated him.

Levin's detailed formal complaint, filed today with the Police Commissioners today on the premises of his president, Maj. Albert Bond Lambert, to investigate if such a complaint was made, was supplemented by a demand from the St. Louis chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union for a public investigation by the Police Board with witnesses under oath.

Pahl told a Post-Dispatch reporter his fight with McLoughlin occurred at 5:15 p. m. when he overheard one of his employees refusing to join the union. The time he fixed was about three hours before McLoughlin and other union officers were taken into custody by the police for questioning.

The cleaning shop proprietor related that he knocked McLoughlin down when the latter reached into his car as if for a weapon. After beating McLoughlin with his fists, Pahl said, he struck the union officer with a broom handle.

JAPAN MOVES ON CHIANG'S ARMY NORTH OF SHANGHAI

Air Bombers Again Raid Kiangwan Civic Center While Warships Shell Troop Concentrations in Kiangsu Province.

DEFENDERS NUMBER 1 HALF A MILLION MEN

Great Areas Afire—Shell Kills Many in International Settlement Where Child Prisoners Riot in Fight for Freedom.

By the Associated Press. SHANGHAI, Aug. 30.—Japanese planes renewed their attack on the Chinese Civic Center at Kiangwan, northwest of Shanghai, today as Japan massed its military and naval forces for a great onslaught against Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's 500,000 men in Kiangsu province.

Kiangwan is the seat of government for the Chinese areas grouped into Greater Shanghai by the Nationalist Government. As such it is second only to Nanking in civic importance.

Several aerial bombs struck the Kiangwan Race Club. Japanese naval guns also bombarded Chinese troop concentrations at Kiangwan and Japanese planes dropped bombs on Miaohong, farther north. Large areas were set afire.

The Japanese drive was not begun earlier because of the unexpected stubborn resistance of Chiang's army.

Both Chinese and Japanese rushed troops to the Paoshan-Lotien line northwest of Shanghai for an expected major battle along the wedge-shaped front Japanese have driven into Chinese territory.

Chinese were evacuating other areas to strengthen their forces along the critical line and meet Japan's first major offensive. It was estimated Japan would pit from 90,000 to 100,000 of its best troops and bluejeans against 500,000 regulars.

Shell Falls in Settlement. A large shell, believed to have been fired by a Chinese gun, exploded in Japanese lines in northern Shanghai, close to the International Settlement. Many were killed, and a wide area was in flames.

Japanese aviators refrained from additional bombardment of the old Chinese city, but army spokesmen said the crowded Nantao quarter would be bombed again if the Shanghai-Hangchow railway were used for troop movements. Hundreds were killed in Nantao Saturday by Japanese bombs.

The Japanese recently stretched across the Whangpoo River opposite the French concession with scuttled Japanese steamships was expected to play a vital part in the conflict. It prevents Japanese warships from operating in areas south of Shanghai.

Throughout the day parts of Shanghai, the Chapel, Hongkew and Pootung districts were subjected to sporadic shelling. The populace was told to take cover.

At Louza police station in the International Settlement 130 Chinese incorrigible children recently transferred from the Ward Road Prison, demanded freedom.

Police finally put down the disturbance and herded the children into Chekiang Theater where they rioted again.

French authorities increased their armed forces in the French concession, where most American residents of Shanghai live. With additional troops arriving from France, the United States has 1250 marines in Shanghai and Great Britain has about 3000 Royal Fusiliers.

Six More Troop Ships Arrive. Chinese said six new Japanese troop transports had arrived at Tsungming Island, in the mouth of the Yangtze north of Shanghai, where Japanese built a military airport.

Japanese gunboats which have operated off Pootung, across the Whangpoo from Shanghai, steamed downstream to Woosung to protect landing parties.

Chinese artillery returned the gunboats' fire, one shell falling into the American Texaco Co. compound on Gough Island, near a large gasoline tank. The shell failed to explode.

BRITISH PROTEST TO JAPAN IS IN MODERATE TERMS

Note Demands Apology for Wounding of Ambassador But Gives No Hint of Reprisals.

CONDEMNNS ATTACKS ON NON-COMBATANTS

Indications Are Tension Will Be Relieved Unless Tokio Adopts Provocative Attitude.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—It was expected here today that Japan would apologize for the machine-gun wounding of Sir Hugh Montgomery Knatchbull-Hugessen, Ambassador to China. Although a protest made public last night, after his delivery in Tokio, was firmly worded, it was regarded as moderate and there were strong indications the tension would ease unless Japan adopted a more provocative attitude.

London demanded satisfaction for the international incident created by Japanese flyer when he fired on the envoy's automobile last Thursday as Knatchbull-Hugessen was traveling from Nanking to Shanghai. An accompanying plane dropped a bomb near the car, which was flying the British flag.

A nickel-steel bullet struck Knatchbull-Hugessen in the abdomen, and "razed the spine," the British note says, recounting the details of the attack as they had been reported to London. The Ambassador is in a Shanghai hospital, his condition indicating he will recover.

Not Belligerent.

Despite its emphatic nature, the note indicates Britain does not plan to pursue any belligerent course should the Japanese hedge on the apology and other redress demanded.

Besides a "formal apology to be conveyed by the Japanese Government to His Majesty's Government," the note demands "suitable punishment for those responsible for the attack" and "assurance by the Japanese authorities that necessary measures will be taken to prevent recurrence of events of such a character."

It was considered here that these three demands could be fulfilled by Japan without any humiliating concessions.

The protest contained no hint of reprisals and it was understood that Britain had not decided on any further action should Japan fail to meet the requirements.

The possibility that Britain might suspend diplomatic relations with Japan was not altogether removed, but seemed remote.

In demanding suitable punishment for those responsible for the attack, it was understood Britain expects them to be brought to trial before a court martial and to receive some punishment, but no attempt was made to prescribe it.

"Illegal, Inhuman."

Britain's note says "the wider significance" of the attack lies in the fact that it was against non-combatants.

"His Majesty's Government feel they must take this opportunity to emphasize the wider significance of this event," it says. "It is an outstanding example of results to be expected from indiscriminate attack from the air."

"Such events are inseparable from the practice, as illegal as it is inhuman, of failing to draw clear distinction between combatants and non-combatants in the conduct of hostilities which international law, no less than the conscience of mankind, has always enjoined."

"The fact that in the present case no actual state of war had been declared expressly recognized by either party to exist emphasizes the inexcusable nature of what has occurred."

The British press in general praised the note, saying it was firm enough without being too belligerent. The London Times commented: "Though the country has been shocked the Government will not allow themselves to be turned from the mediation policy they have followed. Without abandoning any of their rights they will continue to work for a peaceful end to the horrors of the moment."

Prime Minister Chamberlain remained on his week-end visit with King George at Balmoral Castle in Scotland.

150 REBEL PLANES ATTACK LOYALISTS IN ARAGON BATTLE

Victory for Italian soldiers, declared today that foreign troops have created a critical situation for the defense.

"A war which began on our part as a war of liberty has become a war of independence," a government spokesman said. "Foreign Legionnaires have devastated our country under the guidance of a crowd of Spanish traitors."

Officials indicated Hirota expressed sympathy for the wounded yesterday to Foreign Minister Koki Hirota by James L. Dods, the British charge d'affaires. No reply was expected immediately.

The spokesman was more voluble on the Chinese-Russia agreement, asserting that Russia was making China "the tool of her interests in East Asia." He said the treaty showed that "China is finally adopting Communism and opposition to Japan as a national policy."

Tokio newspapers viewed the treaty as an effort to offset the Japanese-German anti-Communist agreement by cementing Chinese-Russian friendship in the Far East.

One newspaper said behind the pact "are secret provisions tantamount to an offensive-defensive alliance" and that it is "inevitable therefore that Soviet-Japanese relations would be exposed to more friction."

The influential newspaper Asahi declared the pact was "another sign of international grouping to which the utmost importance should be attached."

The Foreign Office spokesman issued a statement concerning Japan's announced blockade of the Chinese coast, saying that "Japan, desiring a speedy settlement of the affair, does not desire to see a supply of munitions to China being kept up by third powers which would be bound to prolong and intensify the hostilities."

"Japan confidently hopes in the interest of the peace of East Asia that third powers will not attempt to pour fuel on the flames."

The manner of dealing with "unpeaceful commerce" may vary according to individual cases but the peaceful trade of third powers will be respected fully, he said, adding that no Chinese vessels could be considered as having "bona fide" rights of engaging in commerce.

"His Majesty's Government feel they must take this opportunity to emphasize the wider significance of this event," it says. "It is an outstanding example of results to be expected from indiscriminate attack from the air."

"Such events are inseparable from the practice, as illegal as it is inhuman, of failing to draw clear distinction between combatants and non-combatants in the conduct of hostilities which international law, no less than the conscience of mankind, has always enjoined."

CHINA TO PROTEST TO GENEVA AGAINST JAPANESE INVASION

Chinese to Submit Informative Appeal Under League of Nations Covenant.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Aug. 30.—The Chinese delegation to the League of Nations announced today it was filing with the league a protest against "Japan's aggression in China."

The protest will be delivered to-night, the delegation said. It does not make an appeal under any specific article of the League Covenant, but is "an informative communication for members of the league," they explained.

In the communication, China protests against Japan's bombardment of the Chinese civilian population and says the landing of Japanese reinforcements in China was proof of "Japan's aggressive designs."

The communication also is intended for members of the Advisory Committee created by the League Assembly in 1932 after the Japanese Army occupied Manchuria.

Thus the United States officially will be informed, because it participated in the meeting.

JAPAN TIGHTENS CENSORSHIP OF WAR NEWS IN NORTH CHINA

Written Order Says Officer Must Pass on Reports and Photos in Peiping Battle Zone.

TIENTSIN, Aug. 30.—Japanese military censorship of news coming from the North China conflict was tightened drastically today.

The freedom of foreign reporters covering the war already had been subjected to increasing restrictions as the Japanese extended their control of the Peiping-Tientsin area.

Japanese headquarters today issued written orders specifically aiming at regimentation and supervision of correspondents' activities.

The first order was one forbidding individuals to go to the front unless under direct supervision of an officer who "must be obeyed."

This officer would exercise the sole right to censor dispatches and photographs resulting from such a tour.

The orders were concluded with the statement that the Japanese army does not guarantee the lives of foreign correspondents.

Explosion Destroys Grain Elevator, Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ATCHISON, Kan., Aug. 30.—A dust explosion and fire destroyed the Luckens Mill Co.'s grain elevator here Saturday, but 30 employees escaped without injury.

The loss was covered partly by insurance.

MELLON'S TRUST FUND ESTIMATED AT $200,000,000

Amount to Be Spent in "Well Doing" May Exceed That of the Rockefeller Foundation.

TERMS SET FORTH WITH FILING OF DEED

Trustees May Distribute Entire Amount Immediately or Direct Use Over Indefinite Period.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 30.—Andrew W. Mellon's personal fortune, to be spent in promotion of "well doing or well being," will go into a trust whose size may exceed that of the Rockefeller Foundation.

The A. W. Mellon Educational and Charitable Trust was established in 1930 by the former Secretary of the Treasury to "properly administer and distribute the considerable funds and properties which I contemplate devoting, from time to time, to public, religious and charitable uses and purposes."

The trust's assets will range between $100,000,000 and $200,000,000, with the likelihood that the latter figure will be nearer correct.

John D. Rockefeller gave the Rockefeller Foundation more than $182,000,000 in addition to $130,000,000 which he had placed in an educational board established in 1903.

Deed of Trust Filed.

The Mellon deed of trust, filed in the Allegheny County Recorder of Deeds office today, named as trustees the financier's only son, Paul; his son-in-law, David K. E. Bruce; and Donald D. Shepard, Mellon's attorney.

The trusteeship is irrevocable and self-perpetuating. It may be revised by a single trustee or increased to nine. By a majority agreement the trustees may distribute the entire trust fund immediately or direct its use over an indefinite period.

It was announced Saturday that all of Mellon's personal estate, except $100,000 left to employees, would go into the trust.

The trust already had received more than $30,000,000 in securities and paintings. The paintings, valued by art experts at about $50,000,000, have been given to the Government for a national art museum, which the trust also is building at a cost of more than $3,000,000.

Children Got $300,000,000.

Donald D. Shepard, Mellon's attorney, said Mellon explained in his will that no bequests were made to his children, Paul and Ailsa (Mrs. K. E. Bruce), because they had been adequately provided for during his lifetime.

Mellon is known to have given his children or a holding company in which they own all of the common stock, securities whose value now would exceed $300,000,000.

Mellon directed under terms of the deed of trust that "no event and under no circumstances" shall any part of the fund go to members of the Mellon family, any of the trustees or their successors or to any branch of the State, Federal or municipal government, unless for "one or more exclusively public purposes."

The deed states in part: "Without intending to limit or to restrain in any manner... the absolute discretion which the donor hereby intends to vest in the trustees, the donor requests the trustees to give careful consideration to the needs of those religious, charitable, scientific and educational institutions in which the donor, by membership, association or contribution, had manifested special interest."

Government to Make Tax Study of Mellon Trust.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Treasury officials said today that whether the Government collects any taxes from the Andrew W. Mellon estate would depend on a study of Mellon's educational and charitable trust, to which the financier left his fortune.

Officials said that if it were determined the trust were a bona fide charitable organization, no Federal taxes would be collected. Inheritance taxes might be imposed if it were decided the trust was not a strictly charitable enterprise.

Several years ago, authorities recalled, the Internal Revenue Bureau certified the trust as a charitable agency, making it non-taxable. Shortly afterward, however, Mellon gave the trust more than $50,000,000 in pictures, and the bureau's certification was revoked on the ground that the pictures had not been turned over to charity, or to the public. Since then, however, Mellon has given the pictures to the Government. They will be placed in a national art gallery now under construction here.

Gifts Examined Before.

Authorities said that Mellon's pictures to his children had been examined at the time he made tax returns in the early thirties. They said there would be no inquiry to determine whether the gifts were made in anticipation of death, or from some property had been trans-

Pickets in Front of Cleaning Shop

PICKETING of Real Cleaners, Inc., 4546 Gravois avenue, which resulted in the arrest this morning of nine women and a man, members of Local 20 of the International Association of Cleaners and Dye House Workers, booked for general peace disturbance by mass picketing.

POLICE SEIZE PICKETS AT REAL CLEANERS

When 75 Unionists Mill Around Shop, Officers Go Into Action.

Concentration of about 75 pickets this morning at Real Cleaners, Inc., 4546 Gravois avenue, resulted in the arrest of nine women and a man, booked for general peace disturbance by mass picketing.

The pickets were members of Local 20, International Association of Cleaners and Dye House Workers, which has been seeking recognition by the Real company.

Al Sherman, vice-president of the company, said his employees were satisfied with wages and working conditions and asserted the company had pursued a policy of discharging employees who joined the union. The pickets were union members at other cleaning establishments.

About 125 pickets were sent to four plants of two other cleaning companies this morning, Grannam said. All but two or three at each plant would be withdrawn later in the day, he added, as it came time for them to go to work at other shops. By 10 a. m. there were only four pickets at the Real plant.

Graham said about 105 pickets went to three plants of Pax Cleaners and about 20 to the Grannam-Peckham Cleaning Co., 6146 Page boulevard.

DRIVER CRIMINALLY CARELESS, CORONER SAYS IN VERDICT

Eugene A. Byers, 3140 Laclede Station Road, Operated Car Which Killed Woman.

A coroner's verdict of criminal carelessness was returned today against Eugene A. Byers, 3140 Laclede station road, Webster Groves, driver of an automobile which struck and killed Mrs. Anna Peck, 3719 Herford street, Saturday night at Hampton avenue and Itasca street. Mrs. Rose Linnewerth, 5341 Murdoch avenue, was seriously injured.

Rodney Haug, 2725 Belt avenue, testified the women were driving in the middle of the street, apparently watching his car approach from the north, when Byers' car, coming from the opposite direction, struck them. Byers, a barber, did not testify. Police said he told them, following the accident, that the women walked into the path of his machine before he could avert or stop.

BANK ROBBERS SENTENCED

Kahoka (Mo.) Man Gets 25 Years at Sioux City, Ia.

By the Associated Press.

SIoux CITY, Ia., Aug. 30.—District Judge F. H. Rice sentenced Gerald Bash of Kahoka, Mo., and Glenn Smith of Rochester, Minn., to 25 years imprisonment each to pay for participation in the $2200 robbery of the Morningside State Bank here on April 20, 1936.

Bash and Smith entered pleas of guilty this morning. A third suspect, John Tremmel, arrested last week in Sharon, Pa., has been released. Smith was arrested yesterday at Rochester. Two of the men suspected of being members of the gang now are dead. Clair Gibson, arrested in Roseburg, Ore., committed suicide while in jail at St. Paul. Robert Markwood was found shot to death beside a road in South Dakota.

ferred to his children within the last two years.

Officials added they did not believe there had been any recent gifts. Under the law, only gifts made within two years before death can be considered to have been made in an anticipation of death. When gifts are made in anticipation of death, they are subjected to the regular inheritance tax. Mellon's estate has been variously estimated at from $100,000,000 to $500,000,000. The full Federal and state inheritance tax on $100,000,000 would be $87,000,000. On $500,000,000, the tax would be $347,000,000.

LEGLESS, ENDS 145-MILE SWIM BUT WON'T STAY IN HOSPITAL

Charles Zimny Running Risk of Pneumonia After Reaching New York From Albany.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Although he had been reported a few hours earlier to be in "very serious condition" as a result of swimming 145 miles from Albany to New York in 147 hours, 37 minutes, Charles Zimny, 43-year-old legless swimmer, refused to stay in a hospital today and left when friends called for him. Hospital attendants said he had a slight fever and they feared pneumonia might result from exposure.

Zimny, some 37 pounds lighter than when he entered the Hudson River at Albany last Monday at 5:03 p. m., swam past his goal—the 127th street pier—at 8:40 o'clock last night. He went a mile and a quarter farther downstream before landing at 98th street. Whistles of pleasure craft were sounded.

Zimny, whose legs were severed by a Chicago street car when he was 9, said he swam at night and slept in the water by day. He earns a living giving swimming exhibitions. He has unsuccessfully tried three times to swim the English Channel. His previous endurance record was set in July, 1931, when he swam for 100 hours in a Honolulu pool.

SANITY OF ALLEGED KILLER OF THREE TO BE TESTED

Judge to Appoint Lunacy Commission to Examine Sculptor Robert Irwin.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Judge John J. Freschi said today a lunacy commission will be appointed to examine Robert Irwin, sculptor charged with the murder of Veronica Gedeon, the artist's model; her mother and a boarder in their home.

The announcement followed argument on a motion to appoint the commission to determine if Irwin was legally sane when the three were killed on Beekman Hill last Easter Sunday.

CLEVELAND SUSPECT FREED

Police Unable to Connect Him With Unsolved Murders.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 30.—Police released today a suspect who was questioned regarding 10 unsolved murders in the last three years. They said three days of questioning failed to connect him with the crimes, in each of which the bodies of the victims were cut into several parts.

The man, a former hospital morgue attendant whose duties included the dissection of bodies for autopsies, had been described by Detective-Lieutenant Michael Blackwell as the only person among hundreds questioned who "amounted to a nickel as a suspect."

Stark Going East on Vacation.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 30.—Gov. Stark will leave tomorrow for a two-week vacation in the east prior to attending the Annual Governors' Conference at Atlantic City, Sept. 14-16. He did not announce where he would spend his vacation.

BOY ROLLER SKATER KILLED BY TRUCK

9-Year-Old Clarence Medick Holding to Machine, Driver Says He Was Told.

Nine-year-old Clarence Medick was killed today when he fell under a wheel of a milk truck near 3928 North Market street, apparently while using the vehicle to tow him on his roller skates. He was the son of Mrs. Mathilda Simms, with whom he lived at 2510A North Vandeventer avenue.

Robert Musser, a salesman for the Quality Dairy Co. and the driver of the truck, told police he was unaware of the accident until pedestrians shouted to him to stop. Then he saw the boy's body in the street. He said witnesses told him the boy had clutched at the side of the truck and had then lost his grip and slipped in front of the right rear wheel.

Woman Killed When Truck Hits Auto in County.

Mrs. Fred Scholl, 55 years old, Olive Street road and Emerson avenue, Creve Coeur, was killed yesterday when an automobile in which she was riding with her husband was hit by a truck at Lindbergh boulevard and Ladue road and knocked against a telephone pole.

She died of internal injuries in St. Louis County Hospital at 11:30 a. m., about an hour and a half after the collision. Her husband, a farmer, suffered a fracture of the right leg. He said he had started across Lindbergh, going east, after making a stop at the boulevard, when the truck struck his car.

The driver of the truck, a tractor and trailer, said he was William Scott of Springfield, Mo., employed by the Chicago Street Lines of Springfield. He said he was driving north on Lindbergh at moderate speed and began sounding his horn about 200 yards south of the intersection but that Scholl apparently did not see the truck.

Man Killed by Auto on Highway No. 66 Near Eureka.

A man about 55 years old, identified as Walter McDonald through papers in his possession, issued by the Veterans' Administration Facility at Camp Custer, Mich., was killed by an automobile yesterday at 6:45 a. m. on United States Highway No. 66 near Eureka. The body was taken to the Schrader undertaking establishment at Ballwin.

The driver, who said he was John A. Redel, 2720 South Fifty-ninth street, told highway policemen McDonald was struck by a truck on the road against the right door of his car.

GIRL'S SUITOR SHOT, KILLED BY HER UNCLE

Edgar H. Clark, St. Louis, Fired on by Arnold Richardson in French Village.

The body of Edgar H. Clark, automobile refinisher at the Eighteenth Street Garage, who was shot and killed Saturday night near French Village, Mo., by Arnold Richardson, was brought back to St. Louis today for burial.

Clark, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Clark, 4475A Evans avenue, was shot while he was wrestling on the ground with Kenneth Richardson, brother of Lillian Richardson, a friend with whom he had driven from St. Louis to French Village on Saturday afternoon.

According to witnesses, the wrestling match was "just a friendly fight." But Arnold Richardson, uncle of Lillian, who later admitted the shooting to Sheriff A. A. Bayles of St. Francois County, said he shot because he "thought Clark was getting the better of Kenneth." Earlier in the day, while drinking with Kenneth Richardson, he had put his revolver in his pocket, saying: "If Clark gets smart with me I'll plug him."

Frequent Visitor at Girl's Home.

Clark, who was 29 years old and a former private in the army, and Miss Richardson, 15 years old, had been friends for about three years. She lives at 4220 Evans avenue with her mother, Mrs. Virgil Richardson, and formerly was employed as a waitress. During the summer, she and Clark used to drive almost every week-end to her father's home, which is on a farm near French Village.

Arnold Richardson's house is on the same farm. It was there that he and Kenneth Richardson were drinking during the afternoon. Arnold Richardson, who is 37 years old, had told his niece several times that he thought she was too young to be going out with a man of Clark's age. Lillian's parents are separated.

Girl's Story of Shooting.

Describing the shooting to a reporter today, Lillian Richardson said that when her brother and uncle came back from drinking her uncle showed his revolver to Clark and said: "If anybody fools with me I'll shoot him." Clark looked at the revolver and handed it back to Richardson.

"Then Kenneth, Edgar, and I," Miss Richardson said, "got in Edgar's car. The boys began to push each other around and soon they were on the ground wrestling. Edgar had been knocked down twice and Kenneth once and they were just getting up to shake hands when my uncle suddenly came up from behind. Before anybody could stop him he had shot Edgar."

Arrested several hours after the shooting, Arnold Richardson was taken to jail at Farmington. A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of death "at the hands of Arnold Richardson without cause."

Clark was a private in the regular army for nine years, being stationed at Jefferson Barracks and in Honolulu. He had been employed at the garage since April, 1936. Besides his parents he is survived by a brother, Milton A. Clark. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. at Giddings Presbyterian Church, 4100 Washington boulevard. Burial will be in Valhalla Cemetery.

Tom Powell Legion Post Officers.

William H. Holloman Jr. was named today Commander of the Tom Powell Negro post of the American Legion for the coming year. Theodore B. Haynes and Harry Love were elected first and second vice-commanders. Other newly-elected officers include: Titus Brown, Joe Bowers and William L. Jackson. The post has 511 members.

CHANGE OF VENUE GRANTED IN PICKET INJUNCTION SUIT

Curtis Manufacturing Co. Action Transferred to Court of Judge John A. Witthaus.

Circuit Judge John J. Wolfe granted a change of venue at Clayton today to the 187 defendants in an injunction suit filed last week by the Curtis Manufacturing Co. to restrain members of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, a CIO affiliate, from picketing the company's plant and office in Weillston.

The case was assigned to the court of Judge John A. Witthaus, who is on vacation. A hearing on an order to show why a temporary order should not be issued, scheduled for today in Judge Wolfe's court, was blocked by the action. The hearing probably will not be held until the latter part of next week, attorneys said.

The application for the venue change charged that company officers and attorneys had undue influence over Judge Wolfe. It was made after Judge Wolfe had denied motions for a transfer to Federal Court and for disqualification of himself. The attorney for the defendants argued that Judge Wolfe had been invited by the company last April to supervise an employee election.

A strike was called at the plant Aug. 20 after a breakdown of negotiations. The petition filed last week charged that about 150 persons had paraded past the plant, restraining many from entering.

12 NEW SLEEPING SICKNESS CASES IN LAST TWO DAYS

Total of 67 Since June; Situation Not Alarming, Health Commission Says.

Twelve new cases of encephalitis (sleeping sickness) were reported in the city Saturday and Sunday, making a total of 67 since June, Dr. Joseph F. Bredeck, Health Commissioner, said today.

Twelve sufferers are at Isolation Hospital, including some from St. Louis County, and 43 are in six of the largest private hospitals in the city. A total of 64 cases have been reported since Aug. 1.

Dr. Bredeck repeated earlier statements that the situation was "not alarming," but said authorities were keeping a close check.

"Too Polite" to Be Married.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 30.—Eleanor Bailey, movie chorus girl, announced today she probably would seek a divorce soon from Eddie Foy, dance director. "We were so polite and considerate and sympathetic, that we got on each other's nerves," she said. They were married April 13, 1935.

KILLS SELF WITH GAS PIPED INTO HIS AUTO

Harry W. Sherman Once Served as Chief Deputy Circuit Clerk.

After writing an identifying note, Harry W. Sherman, an insurance agent who was chief deputy under former Circuit Clerk John Schmolli, killed himself by piping carbon monoxide into his car through a garden hose early this morning. The body was found at 6:15 a. m. in the car, which was parked in front of 4830 Birchler boulevard.

Sherman, 47 years old, left his home at 4510A Clarence avenue, last night after telling his mother-in-law he was going to call for his wife and daughter, who were visiting friends.

Physicians estimated he had been dead about two hours when a passerby saw the body slumped in the car and called police. A section of garden hose had been run from the exhaust outlet through a back window of the automobile. The motor was not running when the body was found.

The note offered no explanation for suicide but merely gave his name, address and telephone number and requested that his physician, Dr. James H. Cummings, be called.

Dr. Cummings told police and a Post-Dispatch reporter he had treated Sherman for the last 15 years for melancholia and "nervous depression."

A petition was filed in Circuit Court Thursday against Sherman and the surety company on his $12,000 bond as special commissioner in a land partition case, alleging that he had failed to turn over $2333 allowed in fees since July 1936 to the five plaintiffs in the suit against him. The petition alleged Sherman sold the property at public sale last June for $4000, receiving $2756 in cash.

After serving under both Schmolli and his predecessor, Nag Goldstein, Sherman resigned from the Circuit Clerk's staff in 1926 to become a special agent for a surety company. In recent years he had operated an insurance agency in the Ambassador Building.

CHARLES LEVINE PAID $2000

First Trans-Atlantic Flight Passenger Denies He Smuggled Tungsten.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Charles A. Levine, first passenger to cross the Atlantic in a plane, pleaded innocent in United States District Court today to an indictment charging him and others with smuggling tungsten powder into the United States. Bail was fixed at $2000 and Levine was given 24 hours in the custody of his counsel to obtain a bondsman.

Levine had failed to appear at the morning session of the court and his bail of $500 was forfeited, but the forfeiture later was revoked.

MARTIN RETAINS CONTROL OF AUTO UNION'S BOARD

FACTIONAL FIGHT BREAKS OUT AGAIN

Cries of "Autocracy" During Row Over Eight Flint Delegates—Toledo Gets 1939 Meeting.

By the Associated Press.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 30.—The United Automobile Workers of America, with President Homer Martin in control after a factional fight, last night ended their convention. Principal business accomplished by the 1000 delegates was to set the union's course toward organizing Ford Motor Co. workers. Climaxing a week of caucusing, parliamentary contests and demonstrations, Martin's "progressive" forces were conceded the balance of power on the important executive board. Fifteen Progressive adherents were in the majority on the board against eight members of the "Unit" faction, led by Wyndham Mortimer and Ed Hall, with the last seat still in doubt. Martin controlled the old board, 10 to 2.

Selection of Toledo, O., as the 1939 convention city and the rush to adjournment followed a day during which the delegates fought over seating of eight Flint (Mich.) representatives, whose seven board members were the center of the contest for balance of power.

Differences between the alignments had developed since the business earlier last week, but the arrival of John L. Lewis, leader of the Committee for Industrial Organization, as peacekeeper had resulted in a compromise slate of officers which combined the opposing candidacies. Martin headed both slates.

The compromise, which also increased the executive board from 12 to 17 members, plus the officers, making a total of 24, and the challenge from Lewis to Ford apparently had healed the breach. The convention unanimously voted $400,000 to finance the drive against Ford, authorizing a $1-a-member assessment.

Fight Flares Up Again. The storm broke anew, however, and fiery debate continued for hours over the fate of the eight Flint delegates, whose right to seats had been challenged earlier in the convention. Adoption, by voice vote, of the report of the Credentials Committee that the eight disputed votes be pro-rated among the original 15 delegates sent from the Flint local brought demands for a roll call.

Unity supporters, making a deafening noise by beating tables and chairs with sticks taken from union standards, halted efforts to proceed with business. Cries of "railroad" and "autocracy" rang out. Only the repeated pleas of both Unity and Progressive leaders for harmony succeeded in calming the uproar and permitting the convention to complete its business.

Constitution Revised. Delegates also completed action on revision of the international constitution, adopted a resolution supporting independent labor's political action and renewed an attack on William Green, American Federation of Labor president.

The convention voted to retain constitutional provisions that local unions voting strikes obtain the executive board's approval before walking out, and that in cases of emergency the president may authorize the strike pending the board's consideration.

Martin also was granted power to suspend officers for cause, but in such cases the officers are to have a hearing before the executive committee. The latter's decision is to be final.

Telegram to Green. In a telegram to Green and the A. F. of L. General Executive Council, the convention protested against Green's charge Lewis made a false statement when he said Green attempted to block a U. A. W. A. contract with the General Motors Corporation.

"We are quite familiar with and have certain knowledge of your activities and your telephonic conversation with General Motors Corporation advising them not to sign an exclusive bargaining contract with the U. A. W. A.," the telegram said. "If this is not a traitorous act against us and the whole labor movement then we do not understand the English language."

"We further note you say 'his (Lewis) chief stock in trade seems to be to denounce men as traitors, murderers and monarchists.' We are thoroughly convinced now that you have allied yourself with Tom Girdler of the Steel Corporation and his thugs because President Lewis in his statements referred to Tom Girdler in this particular sentence instead of yourself."

At a meeting of delegates from General Motors Co. locals today, Martin said he accepted the compromise to prevent a split in the union which would have meant the abrogation of labor contracts by "every major automobile manufacturer in the country." Martin said Lewis had informed him last week that manufacturers throughout the country were waiting for a chance to break up negotiations with the U. A. W.

N. L. R. B. ORDERS GLOVE FIRM TO BARGAIN WITH UNION

Also Directs Boss Co., Kewanee, Ill., to Re-employ Strikers With Back Pay.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The National Labor Relations Board announced today it had ordered the Boss Manufacturing Co., Kewanee, Ill., to cease interfering with organizational activities of its employees and to offer re-employment with back pay to employees who went on strike after "fruitless efforts to bargain collectively with the management."

The order directed the company to bargain on request with the International Glove Workers of America, local No. 85, as the exclusive representatives of all of its production employees.

The reinstatement order mentioned specifically four employees who it found were discharged for union activity: Grace Bremmer, Jerry Barry, Marion McCullough and Jess Harlan. The board dismissed, for insufficient showing, complaints filed in regard to the discharge of Nick and Joe Dragovich and Lee Brandy.

LIGGETT & MYERS EMPLOYEES AT WORK; NEGOTIATIONS ON Federal Conciliator Taking Part in Conference After Dispute Over Seniority Rights.

Employees of the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co., Polson and Tower Grove avenues, returned to work today while union leaders and company officials attempted to settle a dispute over seniority rights which closed the plant Friday with a stay-in-strike of the workers.

William F. White, Federal Commissioner of Conciliation, participated in the conferences. Members of the union, Local No. 800 of the Tobacco Workers' International, refused to work Friday because, they said, the company hired five non-union workers when union men, who had been laid off two months ago, were available for jobs. The plant employs about 2500 men and women, most of whom belong to the union, an A. F. of L. affiliate.

TESTIFIES GOODYEAR 'GOT RID OF' CIO MEN

Worker Quit Grievance Committee Because He "Might be Next."

By the Associated Press.

GADSDEN, Ala., Aug. 30.—Arthur Crider, a Committee for Industrial Organization member, testified today at a National Labor Relations Board hearing that he resigned from the grievance committee in the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. plant here six weeks ago because "they were getting rid of some CIO men and I thought I might be next." Crider still is employed in the Goodyear plant.

He was the first witness as the hearing on the complaint of the United Rubber Workers of America charging Goodyear with discrimination against union members entered its third week.

Questioned by Mortimer Koller, board attorney, Crider said he appealed to C. C. Dooley, a foreman, against the discharge of Leroy Smith as his first act while a member of the union grievance committee. He said Smith was not reinstated and Dooley told him "Goodyear has done away with representation and you had better get back to work."

Turning to the Etowah Rubber Workers' organization, Koller drew testimony from Crider that he had been asked to join the Etowah group during working hours. The U. R. W. A. contends the Etowah organization is company-dominated.

On cross-examination Crider testified that Smith was discharged after "building a defective tire."

PINE LAWN TO VOTE ON BONDS

Election Tomorrow Is On $110,000 Issue for Sewers.

A proposed bond issue of $110,000 for construction of storm and sanitary sewers in the Pine Lawn Sewer District will be submitted to voters at a special election tomorrow. Three trustees, to administer the district, will be elected. Candidates who have filed are Edward A. Desmond, G. F. Longhofer and Fred Small. Polls will be open from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m.

Under the district's plans, $175,500 would be spent, with $65,500 for labor provided by a W. P. A. grant. The district, with a population of about 4500 and area of half a square mile, lies along Natural Bridge road west of the city limits.

MAN, WOMAN SHOT TO DEATH IN AUTO AT SPRINGFIELD, ILL.

He Is Thought to Have Killed Her and Himself Because of Jealousy.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 30.—Investigators said today they thought jealousy was responsible for the killing of Mrs. Frances Halle, 28 years old, and Frank J. McCarthy, 51, both of Springfield, whose bodies were found in a parked automobile in the north part of the city early yesterday morning. Both had been shot to death.

John W. Curren Jr., Assistant State's Attorney, said McCarthy's fingerprints were on the revolver from which three shots had been fired. He advanced a murder and suicide theory. Authorities said Mrs. Halle had been keeping company with a man nearer her age. McCarthy's wife, from whom he was separated, lives in Massachusetts.

Mrs. Halle was formerly the wife of Bernard Halle, East St. Louis news dealer. They lived in Springfield during their brief married life and were divorced eight years ago. Halle said to a Post-Dispatch reporter today.

Pennsylvanian, Traced Through Hat, Shows Up at Detroit Police Station.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Aug. 30.—To give himself up to a detective who sought him as a robber, Leo Karaska, 22 years old, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., drove 400 miles to Detroit. He stopped into the police station and asked for Detective Robert Langley.

"He's looking for me," Karaska said. "I came by myself when I found out they'd come and get me if I didn't."

Karaska is charged with the armed robbery of David MacAdam, 24, of Birmingham, Mich.

Langley said the youth held a pipe to MacAdam's head and forced him from his automobile. Aug. 8. After driving a short distance, Karaska became involved in an accident, Langley said, and fled. "He left his hat behind," Langley added. "I checked the cleaner's mark in the hat and notified his brother, who wrote and told him to surrender or we would be down to get him."

WADER STRICKEN

LOUIS J. RUGGEROLI.

YOUTH, 18, WADES INTO DEEP WATER AND DIES OF SHOCK

Non-Swimmer's Death on Outing at Cedar Lake Laid to Heart Attack and Suffocation.

Louis J. Ruggeroli, a baker, 5114
Shaw avenue, died of a heart attack and suffocation yesterday when he suddenly found himself in water over his head while wading in Cedar Lake, nearly Pevely, Mo., about 28 miles south of St. Louis.

A physician who attempted to revive him said that the shock of finding himself in water six feet deep when he knew he could not swim well apparently caused his death. There was no water in his lungs.

Ruggeroli, 18 years old, son of
Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ruggeroli, had gone to the lake for an all-day outing with 25 young men and women, members of the Golden Panthers Athletic Club, 1913 Cooper street, and their friends. He was about 15 feet from shore, shortly before noon, when he suddenly disappeared. He was brought to shore quickly, but efforts to revive him with an inhalator failed.

The funeral will be held Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Ambrose Catholic Church, a Cooper street and Wilson avenue. Burial will be in St. Peter and Paul Cemetery.

Playground, Virginia avenue and Osage street. Kreutz, 18 years old, was catching. He was hit when a batter swung at a ball.

At City Hospital it was said his condition was serious.

ROOSEVELT SIGNS FLOOD CONTROL AND DROUTH BILLS

Vetoes Measure to Give Private Organizations
$294,000 to Aid Destitute Veterans.

$34,000,000 FUND
TO CURB RIVERS

$24,000,000 of It Allotted to Ohio Valley — 13 Other Acts Approved by the President.

By the Associated Press.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 30.—
President Roosevelt announced yesterday the signing of 15 more bills, including measures aimed at both floods and drouths. He also vetoed two more minor proposals passed in the closing days of Congress.

Besides signing into law the 1937 flood control bill authorizing $34-177,000 of new projects, mostly in the Ohio Valley, he approved a Senate measure to promote water conservation, and proper land use projects in the dry regions of the West, under a program to be formulated by the Department of Agriculture.

One of his vetoes rejected a bill which would have appropriated $294,852 out of the Treasury for division among various veterans' organizations for use in aiding destitute or unemployed veterans and their dependents. He said:
"I find myself unable to agree with the present proposal to provide, out of the general fund of the Treasury, for the donation to private agencies of funds to which they have no claim, and to the expenditure of which the usual governmental safeguards would not apply."

He also withheld approval of a Senate bill authorizing a $30,000 appropriation for co-operating with a public school board of Kootenai County, Idaho, to build an additional school at Worley, Idaho. He said the bill, designed primarily to provide a classroom space for Indian children, made no provision for reimbursing the Government and the prospective Indian pupils were too small in number to warrant the expenditure.

Takes Drive After Church.
Before announcing disposition of the 17 bills, the President attended services at the little St. James' Episcopal Church here, and later in the day took a drive over his forestry project at nearby Val-Kill.
The Rev. Harold H. R. Thompson of Arlington preached the sermon at St. James' in place of the Rev.
Frank R. Wilson, who is on vacation. In the President's pew were Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mrs. J.
R. Roosevelt, a sister-in-law, and
Maj. Henry Hooker, a friend of the family.

The President signed the flood-control measure despite his disapproval of a provision giving him discretionary authority to remit up to 50 per cent of property contributions now required by cities and towns. He had announced previously he would have preferred that Congress itself decide this on the merits of each case.

Of the $34,177,000 authorized, $24-877,000 would go for flood-wall protection for population centers in the Ohio Valley and $9,000,000 for control works along Wolf River and Nonconah Creek at Memphis.
Army engineer surveys on many streams also are provided.

The "dust bowl" bill that won approval declares a policy of Congress to assist in providing facilities for water storage and utilization in arid and semi-arid areas.
To effectuate this policy, it authorizes the Secretary of Agriculture to:

1. Formulate and keep current a program of projects for construction and maintenance of ponds, reservoirs, wells, check dams and pumping installations in areas where it would promote "proper utilization" of lands.

2. Construct and sell or lease, with or without money consideration, such facilities.

3. Co-operate or enter into agreements with, or furnish financial aid to, individuals and local agencies.
The Secretary could require the enactment of state and local laws on conservation, and contributions in money, services and materials to any operations conferring benefits.

Analyses Veterans' Bill.
The veterans' bill would have been turned over to the American Gold Star Mothers, American War Mothers, Veterans of Foreign Wars and disabled American veterans an unexpended balance of funds accumulated by military organizations during the World War.
Congress, the President said, had already provided "that, because of the impossibility of returning this money to the sources from which it originated, it be covered into the general fund of the Treasury and has authorized an equivalent amount to be appropriated, in the event of war, for the recreation, amusement, comfort, contentment and health of the enlisted personnel of the military establishment."
He referred to congressional committee reports on the bill stressing that a portion of the money formerly in this fund was authorized to be turned over to the American Legion to be used in liquidating indebtedness against Pershing Hall Memorial in Paris, thereby implying that other national organizations engaged in aiding veterans "are likewise entitled to share in this fund."

"The premise on which this argument is based seems to me an incorrect one," he said. "The appropriation which was made to the Secretary of the Treasury to liquidate the indebtedness connected with Pershing Hall was conditioned on the vesting of the legal title to the property in the Government of the United States for the use and benefit of all American veterans of the World War."

"In no sense could this former appropriation be considered as being for the benefit of any one or organization of veterans. The purpose of that appropriation was entirely different from the one authorized by the pending bill."

Man Dead Near Golden Gate Bridge
By the Associated Press.
SAN RAFAEL, Cal., Aug. 30.—
County officers sought aid of Massachusetts authorities today in an effort to establish identity of a man, about 26 years old, whose body was found by soldiers near Golden Gate Bridge. A note said "this carcass is Archie London" and asked that the body be sent to

N. L. R. B. TO OPEN BETHLEHEM STEEL HEARING SEPT. 8

Summonses Prepared for Extensive Investigation of Company's Policies Toward Employees.

PLACE NEAR SCENE OF CAMBRIA STRIKE

Complaint Charges Firm Dominated Plant Union and Tried to Defeat Walkout by Use of Arms

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30. — National Labor Relations Board attorneys prepared summonses today for witnesses to be heard in an extensive investigation of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation's policies toward its employees.

The Board issued a complaint Saturday night charging Bethlehem, the world's largest independent steel producer, with violating the Wagner Act. The complaint charges that the corporation dominates an organization known as the "plan of employee representation," and that it tried to break up the recent strike at the Cambria works at Johnstown, Pa., by the use of armed forces and the fostering of a "back-to-work" movement.

The hearing was set for Sept. 8 at Franklinboro, Pa., near Johnstown.

The Cambria plant was one of the focal points of the C. I. O. strike, beginning last May, against the four major independent steel makers.

Besides the charges, the hearing will cover a petition requesting the board to determine the employees' choice of collective bargaining representatives. The board has been asked to decide whether the 55,000 Bethlehem employees want the Steel Workers Organizing Committee, a C. I. O. affiliate, to represent them.

It was considered certain that Bethlehem Steel would fight the charges. When the hearing is completed the board can, if it considers the evidence sufficient, order the company to refrain from the practices specified.

If the company ignores the order, the struggle will be transferred to the courts, with the Labor Board appealing for an injunction in the Circuit Court of Appeals. Such procedure is outlined in the Wagner Labor Relations Act, under which the board issued its complaint.

Labor Board Hearing on Wierton Co. in Third Week.

By the Associated Press.

NEW CUMBERLAND, W. Va., Aug. 30.—The National Labor Relations Board hearing on charges against the Wierton Steel Co. entered its third week today.

C. D. Beagle, mill worker and part-time minister, returned to the witness stand. Last week he defended the employee representation at the Wierton plant, which has been attacked by the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee as hostile to union workers.

"After joining the Amalgamated (Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel & Tin Workers) and paying dues, I lost three weeks' work in a strike I didn't vote for, didn't know why it was called or when it was to be called," he testified today.

The union, which is now being expanded by the S. W. O. C., called the strike, in 1933, in an unsuccessful attempt to obtain union recognition.

SUES UNION, CHARGING FEAR OF IT DROVE SON TO SUICIDE

Father Says Detroit Worker Was Unwilling Participant in U. A. W. Sit-down.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Aug. 30.—James Briggs filed suit for $85,000 against the United Automobile Workers of America today, charging that fears of violence from union members drove his son, Robert, to suicide.

Robert Briggs, 22 years old, was described by his father as an unwilling participant in a 10-day sit-down strike at the Bohn Aluminum & Brass Corporation plant which ended Jan. 6. The youth died of poison on April 22.

Clayton D. W. Bordner, the attorney who filed the suit in Circuit Court, said other strikers threatened to beat Briggs and throw him from a window during the strike to speed negotiations for a settlement. Bordner said the youth required a physician's treatment after the strike and that he was "continually in fear that the union men were coming to get him."

Defendants in the suit, beside the union, are Homer Martin, president; Walter Reuther, Lloyd Jones and Ed Hall, members of the union's executive board, and Fred Hoare, described as chief shop steward at the Bohn plant during the strike.

Lieut. L. L. Doan Injured.

Lieut. L. L. Doan, detailed by the War Department to Western Military Academy, Alton, was a patient in St. Luke's Hospital today because of head injuries suffered yesterday when his horse fell in attempting a jump. He lives at 615 Forest avenue, Alton.

THE RULES

Please Read Them Carefully

1. The OLD GOLD CARTOON CONTEST is open to everybody residing within the 48 states of the U. S. A. or District of Columbia, with the exception of the employees of P. Lorillard Company, Inc., and their families, and employees of its advertising and sales promotion agencies and their families.
2. A group of 45 cartoons will be released. Each cartoon will contain two balloons for conversation. One of the balloons, however, will be left blank. The contestant is to supply the missing conversation for the blank balloon using not over 12 words.
3. OLD GOLD will pay a First Prize of $100,000.00 and 999 other cash prizes (a grand total of 1,000 prizes aggregating $250,000.00) in the order of value, to the one thousand contestants who write the missing conversation for the 45 cartoons and whose statements are considered original and best in the opinion of the judges, and who in all other ways conform with these Official Rules. The prize will be awarded such contestants in the order of the merit of their statements as designated by the judges. The judges' decision will be final.
4. The cartoons will be issued in weekly Series of three, and contestants are asked to supply the required statements and submit them EACH WEEK. The 1st Week's Series of 3 cartoons bears the release date of Saturday, September 4, 1937. Each Saturday, for fourteen additional weeks, there will be another weekly Series to answer. Contestants should supply the required statements and submit them weekly, during the week following issuance date of each Series. In submitting the answers for any current Series, a contestant is privileged to submit statements for preceding Series. Thus, a contestant entering the contest during the 2nd Week should submit both the 1st Week's Series as well as the 2nd Week's Series; and a contestant entering during the 3rd Week should submit both the 1st and the 2nd Weeks' Series as well as the 3rd Week's Series; and so on. All Series should be qualified in accordance with Rule No. 7.

5. Contestants are requested to mail their weekly answers EACH WEEK. All cartoons are FREE! The first four weeks' Series may be obtained at cigarette stands. If your cigarette dealer cannot supply you, we will mail you these cartoons free on request. ENTRY FORMS may be clipped from newspapers, magazines or circulars and will be equally acceptable. Once you have sent in your answers for the earlier cartoons, the remaining cartoons will be mailed to you FREE, as issued.
6. Neatness will not count. Do not decorate your answers. DO NOT SEND IN THE CARTOONS. Just supply your answers (the missing conversation for the blank balloons), in accordance with the rules; writing these answers in the Entry or Answer Forms provided for this purpose. In case of tie, duplicate awards will be made.
7. To qualify for a prize, the contestant is required to accompany each weekly Series of answers with three OLD GOLD yellow package wrappers or three reasonably accurate hand-drawn facsimiles. Either will be equally acceptable. It is not necessary to make a purchase in order to compete. A contestant is privileged to enter more than one complete set of answers, but each entry must be properly qualified and be individually identified as entry "A"; entry "B"; etc. Each entry will be judged as a unit. A contestant is eligible to win one prize only, namely the highest prize won by any individual entry submitted by that contestant.
8. Upon entering this contest and by submission of answers, the contestant accepts these rules as binding and agrees that the decision of P. Lorillard Company in all matters affecting the conduct of the contest, the acceptance of submissions, the making of awards and the measures invoked to insure individual effort in fairness to all contestants, shall be final and conclusive. The P. Lorillard Company will establish an individual file for each contestant, but will not be responsible for submissions or communications unduly delayed or lost in the mail either from or to the contestant. Each entry and submission becomes the property of P. Lorillard Company.
9. Each weekly Series of answers, together with 3 OLD GOLD yellow package wrappers or facsimiles, as specified in Rule No. 7, should be addressed to OLD GOLD CONTEST, P. O. Box 9, Varick Street Station, New York, N. Y.

OUR PLEDGE TO EVERY CONTESTANT

We shall use every effort to conduct this contest in a manner to insure fairness and the fullest measure of opportunity for each and every person who competes.

INDIVIDUAL FILES

The moment you enter this contest, YOUR OWN individual and separate file will be established. In that file your weekly submissions will be carefully placed. Your file will at all times be seriously and importantly regarded by us because we realize that upon your entry in this contest you have set your heart and your hopes upon the winning of a $100,000.00 cash fortune.

COMPLETE DETAILS ABOUT WINNERS WILL BE SENT TO ALL CONTESTANTS

When the time comes for the judging of answers, your submissions will be given the utmost consideration. And with the awarding of prizes, information will be mailed to all contestants, setting forth the names and addresses of all winners.

IN THAT SPIRIT

you are invited to enter this contest by P. Lorillard Co., Inc., makers of Double-Mellow OLD GOLDS. On the basis of our pledge we urge and feel entitled to the enthusiastic response of every true contest fan and every lover of good sportsmanship.

BARREL MURDER CLEW
SEARCH TURNS WEST

Detective Goes to Kansas City to Investigate Killing of Mrs. Max Gordon.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Investigators turned to Kansas City today for a possible solution of the murder of Max (One Eye) Gordon's widow, whose body was thrown into the East River's Hell Gate early Friday.

Detective Thomas Coote was on way by airplane to investigate Mrs. Gordon's visit to Kansas City a short time after her husband, notorious figure among narcotic peddlers, was killed in an automobile wreck in Texas. Officers here termed her death "an underworld killing for money."

Lieut. John Anderson, acting chief of the Queen's homicide squad, said Gordon's Russian-born wife was killed because she tried to hold her husband's interest in the narcotics racket or attempted to "cash in" on information she possessed.

Ether Gordon was stabbed with an ice pick, shot through the head, wrapped in two tablecloths of the kind commonly used in cheap night clubs, placed in a barrel and tossed down the river bank.

Inspector John J. Ryan said that although Mrs. Gordon had not lived regularly with her husband, whose title of "One Eye" came from the loss of an eye shot out by St. Louis gangsters years ago, she had lived well on money supplied by him.

Her trip to Kansas City, taken after she returned her husband's body to New York from Texas for burial, was made, said Ryan, to collect money from narcotic peddlers associated with Gordon.

Mrs. Gordon's twin sister, Mrs. Florence Cooper, claimed her body and returned it to Revere, Mass., her former home, for burial.

POLICE QUESTION TAXI DRIVER
ABOUT CHICAGO PARK MURDER

Woman Says He Introduced Her to Her Escort, Who Was Shot to Death.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Joseph Burman, 34 years old, a taxicab driver, was arrested today for questioning in connection with the murder of Herbert W. Lee a week ago in Grant Park. Police said he was the man who introduced Lee several months ago to Grace Snyder, alias Lucille Buehler.

Miss Snyder told police that Lee, an Evanston butcher, was shot to death by one of two men as he strolled in the park with her. She was arraigned in Felony Court this morning on a charge of being an accessory to the murder, and Judge George B. Weiss set her bond at $25,000. The case was continued until Sept. 14.

Also held were Leonard Doxey, said to have been Miss Snyder's friend, who was returned here Saturday from St. Louis on a warrant charging murder; Laurence Dixon and Lucille Meredith, alias Mueller, both of whom were arrested with Doxey.

Police Lieut. Thomas Kelly said Jimmy Murphy, a transient who witnessed the killing, had pointed out Doxey as one of the two men who fled from the scene of the murder.

Truck, Cash, Farmhand Gone.
Ben Abeln, a farmer residing near Florissant, reported to police that when he returned from church yesterday he discovered that his motor truck, $250 in cash and two rings worth $50 were gone; also a farmhand who had been working for him.

MAN KILLED BY BOMB
IN EX-GANGSTER'S CAR

Detroit Night Club Attendant Blown Up—Police Question
Owner of Auto.

By the Associated Press.
DETROIT, Aug. 30.—Police investigating a dynamite explosion which blew up the automobile of Harry Millman, a former member of the so-called "Purple Gang," killing the Negro doorman of a downtown nightclub, continued today to question Millman.

Millman, waiting at the door of the Ten Forty night club for his car, fled when the explosion, in a nearby parking lot, rocked the area early yesterday, but reported voluntarily to police later in the day. He said:

"I decided the best thing for me to do was to run. I got into a cab and went out to Hamtramck for a few drinks."

The man killed was William W. Holmes, 39 years old. He regularly got Millman's car for him when he stopped at the club.

William Carvers, police expert said 10 sticks of dynamite had been wedged into the car's motor and wired to a spark plug. When the ignition was turned on the explosion tore the car to pieces and threw Holmes almost through the back window.

A postcard-size photograph of a curly-headed girl on a shetland pony, with a diagram of a building drawn on the back, was studied by police as a possible clue. It was found about five feet from the wrecked automobile. It might have been dropped by the man who placed the dynamite.

To police Millman said: "I can't understand this. I haven't any enemies left over from the old days and I'm not going anything now that would make anyone want to get me. If they wanted me they could find me easy enough. I'm on the streets all the time and I never carry a gun."

He denied that labor troubles might be back of the attack and scoffed at the charge of former Wayne County Prosecutor Harry S. Toy that Millman was connected with labor racketeering.

"I'm as legitimate as the next guy," Millman said. "All I do is run a few handbooks."

According to police records, Millman has been arrested 28 times in the past 10 years but never has served time. He was fined three times for minor offenses.

3420 AUTO DEATHS IN JULY

Rise in Total, but Drop in Vehicular Mile Ratio.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—A total of 3420 persons lost their lives on streets and highways during July, the National Safety Council reported today.

The deaths—160 more than in the corresponding month last year—increased the traffic toll 5 per cent for the month and 12 per cent for the seven-month period. The gain, however, was counterbalanced, the council's statisticians said, by a 12 per cent increase in the month's motor mileage. The increased mileage reduced fatalities per 100,000 vehicle miles 7 per cent in July compared to the figure in July, 1936.

FORUM ON MOVIES
AT WILLIAMSTOWN

Speaker Says Producers Think Too Little of Pictures' Effect on Audiences.

By the Associated Press.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 30.—A forum on the motion picture opened the week's program of the Institute of Human Relations here today. The general topic of the conference is "Public Opinion in a Democracy."
Fred Eastman of Chicago Theological Seminary called on the movie industry "to become the ally and not the enemy of the school and church in developing the culture of America and the world."
In an address prepared for delivery, he said the men controlling the industry "had, until recently, too little regard for the effect of their pictures upon the minds and character of the people who saw them, and too little sense of responsibility for protecting America's good name abroad."

Eastman offered four suggestions: More careful selection on the part of the movie-goer, community education in movie appreciation, elimination of the block-book system and authority for the State Department to prevent the exportation of pictures which give "false impressions" of American life.

"We want to see the production of pictures remodeled," he said, "so we may have fewer and better films, pictures that interpret life, and do not simply escape from it, pictures that tell the truth about war and dictators and do not bow the knee to Hitler and Mussolini in order to have a sale in Germany and Italy."

Dr. Edgar Dale of the Bureau of Educational Research of Ohio University, criticized the portrayal of what he called racial and vocational stereotypes in the movies. He gave as examples the motion picture version of newspaper men, the "money grasping" Jew, and the Negro comic. He said there was a need for intelligent short subjects.

BRITISH LOAN FIRMS' SCHEME CALLED FRAUD

New York Attorney-General Advises Investors to Beware; Advance Fee Charged.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—A warning to American investors to beware of "attractive" offers from foreign money lenders was issued by State Attorney-General John J. Bennett Jr. yesterday, following an investigation of two British banking firms advertising long-term, low-interest loans in American newspapers.

Already American investors have been fleeced of thousands of dollars, said Assistant Attorney-General A. V. McCall, who conducted the investigation of the United Kingdom Mercantile and Finance Corporation, Limited, and Heilbut-Symons & Co., both of London. McCall termed the firms' operations a "gigantic fraud" and an example of the "front money racket" in British guise.

The investigation began Aug. 13, when Justice Charles Poletti signed an order staying New York representatives of the British concerns from disposing of any asset pending an announcement of the Attorney-General's findings.

According to the report, it was the practice of the firms to advertise loans for 60 years, at 4½ per cent interest, in the "business opportunities" columns of American newspapers.

The "pay-off," said McCall, was in the form of an advance fee paid by the applicant before the loan was consummated. No evidence that any loan was even consummated came to the attention of the investigators.

The report said: "The investigation so far indicates that even the Bank of England would be unable to provide the requested loans made by citizens of the United States, if it is reasonable to assume that similar large sums have been requested by business men in all the other nations of the world where these corporations are apparently active."

Copies of the McCall report have been forwarded to Secretary of State Hull and United States Attorney Lamar Hardy, of the Southern District of New York.

Asserting that "the British Empire takes no steps whatsoever to protect, not only its own citizens, but the citizens of other countries, from frauds originating in England in the promotion and sale of fictitious and fraudulent securities," McCall said the most effective protection for the American investor was widespread publicity.

OXFORD (N. C.) MAN ELECTED PRESIDENT OF CHIROPRACTORS International Research Foundation Urges Stricter State Laws Regulating Practice.

Hal Pittard of Oxford, N. C., was elected president of the International Chiropractic Research Foundation at the closing session of its fifth annual convention at Hotel Jefferson yesterday. The foundation is composed of practitioners of chiropractic methods originated by Hugh B. Logan of St. Louis.

Other officers: C. P. Huey, Toronto, Ontario, vice-president; Thomas E. Maher, St. Louis, secretary-treasurer; Bertha Hartman of St. Louis, Warren Sausser of New York and Edward Brenner of High Point, N. C., directors. The 500 delegates voted to hold the next annual meeting in St. Louis.

Resolutions were adopted favoring stricter state laws regulating chiropractic, including the requiring of a high school diploma and a four-year day course in a non-private owned chiropractic college as a pre-requisite for a chiropractic license. In Missouri legal requirements now may be fulfilled by a 27-month course at night school.

2500 SEE MODEL AIRPLANE BUILDERS' OUTDOOR CONTEST
Rockford and Chicago Youths With Junior and Senior Division Prizes.

Arthur Beckington, 14 years old, of Rockford, Ill., and Richard O'Barski, 18, of Chicago, were first in the junior and senior divisions, respectively, of the 1937 Mississippi Valley Model Airplane competition, held here Saturday and yesterday, with 225 contestants entered.

The prizes were airplane trips to New Orleans.

A silver trophy for the outstanding performance was awarded to Roy Wriston, 23, of Tulsa, Ok. who established two new world records in the indoor events at the Arena Saturday. The outdoor contests were held yesterday at Parks Airfield, attracting about 2500 spectators.

CALIFORNIA WOMAN DIES AFTER ATTACK BY CHOW DOG

Shock and Loss of Blood Following Amputation of an Arm — Prove Fatal.

OAKLAND, Cal., Aug. 30.—An attack by a maddened chow dog proved fatal yesterday to Miss Charlotte Parker, 65 years old, a cripple.

The chow went berserk after nipping Miss Parker and drawing blood. It was tearing her arms when police, who had heard her calls, arrived. Loss of blood and shock from an operation to amputate one arm caused death, doctors said.

9 HELD AS ROBBERY SUSPECTS

Illinois Prison Parolees and Woman Among Chicago Prisoners.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Four young parolees from the Pontiac branch of the Illinois State penitentiary and a young woman called "the wild cat" by detectives were held by police today as suspects in a series of robberies extending over a period of six months.

The woman, police said, is Sarah Cascavale. Police identified the former Pontiac prisoners as Fred Cantieri, Sam Cascavale, Nick La Caccia and Joseph Zaccari, all of Chicago. Four other men, said by detectives to be members of the gang, also were held.

BABY FOUND DEAD IN CRIB

Apparently Strangled With Head Caught Between Bars.

Cecil, 5-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Keller, 2242 Madison street, was found dead yesterday morning in his crib. He apparently had strangled when his head caught between upright bars at the head of the bed.

Police used an inhalator without success.

Woman, 85, Killed in Fall.
Mrs. Mamie Richmond, a Negro, was killed early yesterday when she fell out of a second-floor window of her home, 3225 Pine boulevard. Friends said Mrs. Richmond, who was 85 years old, apparently lost her balance when she went to the window for fresh air.

HARRELL'S FIRST COMPLETE GAME IS A ONE-HITTER

By J. Roy Stockton
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.
NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Uncle Frank Harrell is ready to expect anything to happen and he wouldn't be surprised if he picked Tommy Farr to beat Joe Louis, the Reds to win the pennant and parlayed it all back on the Yankees to lose the World Series in four straight games. Frank has seen the Phillies take four straight from the Gas House Gang, knocking out Dizzy Dean in the first inning and then beating Bob Weiland, Mike Ryba and even Lon Warneke and now he has seen Ray Harrell pitch a complete game and win it.

Harrell is the curly-haired son of Texas, a big strapping fellow, who was going to help win a pennant in 1925 and who surely was going to arrive this year as a major league pitcher. He has one of the best curves in baseball, a ball that takes off like a paper airplane glider and apparently he and the other things it takes to make a big league hurler.

Finally Finishes One.
But until yesterday afternoon, Boston Harrell had started 12 games for the 1927 Redbirds and hadn't finished any. Once he almost finished a game, but had to be taken out in the ninth on account of base hits and Dizzy saved the game for him. Yes, it probably was Ray Dean, though that doesn't sound just right.

Then, a few weeks ago, Ray hurled a two-hitter against the Pirates for eight innings and one of the two safe blows was a measly scratch. But going into the ninth with a 5 to 1 lead, he was knocked out of the box and the contest eventually was lost, although Ray wasn't charged with the defeat.

OTT KNOCKS 28TH HOMER; GAME SAVED BY HUBBELL

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The Giants climbed into first place in the National League this afternoon for the first time since June 13 by nosing out the Cincinnati Reds, 4 to 3, behind the airtight relief pitching of Carl Hubbell.

The Chicago Cubs, who had an open date, dropped to second place. Cliff Melton pitched one-hit ball for six innings, then had to be taken out in the seventh when the Reds rallied for three runs, with the aid of an error. Hubbell stopped Cincinnati cold.

Mel Ott hit his twenty-eighth home run of the season with a man on base, off Hollingsworth in the third inning.

York Hits 16th Homer in Month; Ruth's Mark 17

By the Associated Press.
DETROIT, Aug. 30.—Rudy York, Detroit's clouting rookie, bashed his twenty-eighth home run of the season in the lower right field stands in the first inning of this afternoon's game with the Yankees.

The clout was his sixteenth of the month, giving him a chance to equal or tie Babe Ruth's record of 17, which the Bambino posted in September, 1927, when he set his all-time high mark of 60 for a season.

Tommy and Joe Square Off—At Weigh-In

Tommy Farr, Welsh challenger for Joe Louis' heavyweight boxing championship, stand in fighting poise at their second weigh-in this afternoon in New York. The bout was postponed from last Thursday until tonight because of rain.

Brownies Break Even And Retain Seventh Place By .003 Margin

By James M. Gould.
By the dawn's early light, the Browns today found themselves still in seventh place after a Sunday doubleheader with the Boston Red Sox, their margin over the Athletics, present cellar-tenants, being exactly .003. This enormous margin was maintained by breaking even yesterday with Boston, losing the first game, 2-0, and winning the second, 8 to 2.

Now comes the real tug-of-war—the "Scrap of the Cellar" for tomorrow, the Athletics come breaking in a series with a doubleheader. Then, with the cellar the booby prize, will be deeds of derring do as these two clubs, the nearest some 15 games behind sixth place, battle it out. Who can predict the result; who would dare to say which of these two "powerful" machines would prove the better in a single series? Prophets go out on a limb predicting a horse-race or a championship fight but none there is with that blazing brand of courage who would attempt to foresee the winner of a series between the Browns and the Mackmen. That the struggle will be epochal goes without saying. It really ought to be good, both teams being so bad.

There was quite a bit of baseball extant yesterday before 4030 fans who care not where the contending teams are in the league-standings. In the opener, our loquacious friend, Buck Newson, pitched a whole of a game in blanking the Browns, 2 to 0, allowing only four hits scattered over three innings. Dizzy Dean's only real pop-off rival was a master hurler. He permitted only one hit in the first five frames and only in the sixth was he in the slightest danger of being scored upon. In that inning, with two gone, West and Cliff singled in succession but Bell forced Cliff to end it all.

Cramer and Cronin Shine.
This first game was featured by a Cramer-Cronin combination which was directly responsible for both the Boston runs. In the fourth, Cramer tripled and scored when Cronin followed with a single and, in the sixth, Cramer doubled and scored when Cronin obliged with another single.

MISS GUTH HAS 80 IN MISSOURI GOLF TOURNEY

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 30.—Mrs. Opal S. Hill opened defense of her title as Missouri's woman golf champion by shooting a 79 today in the qualifying round of the State tournament.

The Kansas City woman shot three under women's par and equaled men's par on the first nine with a 35, but wilted under pressure of the heat on the last nine. Woman's par for 18 holes is 78.

VON CRAMM AND HENKEL WIN U.S. TENNIS DOUBLES CHAMPIONSHIP

By the Associated Press.
BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 30.—Baron Gottfried von Cramm and Henner Henkel of Germany, became the first foreigners to win the United States doubles tennis championships since 1919 today when they dethroned the defending titlists, Don Budge and Gene Mako, 6-4, 7-5, 6-4, at Longwood.

It was the third clash of the season for those two sets of finalists and it resulted in the first victory the Germans have gained over the American stars.

Budge and Mako first overcame Von Cramm and Henkel in a five-set final at Wimbledon and they came from behind to gain their second triumph in the four-set doubles match in the Davis Cup interzone final.

Mako's inability to hold his service gave the Germans the break in each of today's three sets. Henkel was called upon to serve during the second time in the tenth game, thereby giving the Baron a chance to wind it up on his service.

Budge and Mako pulled into a 3-0 lead in the third set, by breaking through Henkel in the second game, but lanky Donald cracked in the fifth, to square matters, and Mako tossed away the match when, in the seventh game, he dropped the fourth of the eight games he was called upon to serve during the title match.

The slam-banging Henkel, whose service is rated as the most severe in amateur tennis, paced his team to victory by piling up a total of 28 aces today, including one ace with his terrific power. Von Cramm was credited with 24 earned points, including a pair of aces, but he held his errors to 29 against 35 for his partner.

CHALLENGER HAS A GOOD LEFT, BUT LACKS "KAYO" PUNCH IN HIS RIGHT HAND

British Empire Titleholder Will Have Weight Edge Over Brown Bomber in His First Defense of Title—Promoter Expects 35,000 to Attend.

By W. J. McGoogan.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.
NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—After a delay of four days due to rain, Joe Louis will lay his recently won heavyweights boxing championship of the world on the line tonight when he meets Tommy Farr of Tonymandy, Wales, champion of the British Empire, in a 15-round contest at Yankee Stadium.

Aside from inconvenience and added expense to visitors to the city for the match, the four days of waiting since the fight was postponed last Thursday have made very little difference, if any, in the aspect of the fight. Farr might have been aided to some extent by the postponement because the cut on his right cheek had more time to heal and did heal tightly shut.

That both men put in the time since the postponement working was evident from their weights at the second weighing today. Louis weighed 197 pounds, one pound lighter than he was last Thursday, while Farr was down to 204½, two and one-half pounds under the 207 pounds he weighed four days ago.

Louis' Camp Worried?
The Louis camp was allegedly disturbed over the postponement because it took them back to June of 1935, when the Detroit Negro bout with Max Schmeling was postponed one day and Louis was knocked out. He was the top-heavy favorite then over Schmeling, as he is now over Farr.

It is said that the handlers of Louis are notable bunch players, and they have been worried since the fight was set back. But that had made no difference to Joe, because he probably is not familiar with a hunch. He just goes in there and throws the dynamite which is in both hands, and lets it go at that.

Farr's past record, including, as it does, victories over Max Baer, Ben Ford and Walter Neusel, and his training for this match does not indicate that Tommy will prove a formidable opponent for Louis.

Tommy has won 54 bouts of the 71 in which he has engaged, 19 by knockouts and 35 by decision. He has boxed seven draws and has been defeated 10 times, although he was never knocked out.

Louis in 36 contests has won 35, 30 by knockouts, and was stopped by Schmeling.

Challenger Has Fine Left.
Those watching Farr in training have admitted that he has a better left hand than anybody that Louis has previously met, but his right hand, although skillfully delivered, lacks the power thought to be necessary to upset the battle plans of Louis and make it possible for Farr to win.

Fight Facts

Principals—Joe Louis, Detroit, world heavyweight champion, vs. Tommy Farr, Tonymandy, Wales, British Empire champion.
Place—Yankee Stadium, New York.
Length of bout—15 rounds to a decision.
Time of bout—First preliminary 8 p. m., St. Louis time; main bout, 8 p. m., may be advanced if weather threatening.
Weights—Louis, 197 pounds; Farr, 204½ pounds.
Probable attendance—35,000.
Probable receipts—$350,000 (including radio and motion picture rights).
Broadcast—N. B. C. hookup for main bout (starting not earlier than 7:15, St. Louis time).

FARR TO HAVE 7 1-2 POUND WEIGHT EDGE

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Joe Louis scaled 197 pounds today for his delayed 15-round heavyweight championship match with Tommy Farr in the Yankee Stadium tonight. Farr scaled 204½ pounds.

Both fighters were lighter today than they were last Thursday when they went through weighing-in ceremonies only to have a steady rain force a postponement until tonight.

At that time Louis scaled 198 and Farr 207.

Although the weather was cloudy and threatening, Promoter Mike Jacobs said he would make no decision on a postponement until late this afternoon, probably not before 4 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

If postponed again, the bout will be held tomorrow night.

English Writer Makes Charge That the Farr and Louis Title Bout "Is Not a Straight Fight"

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 30.—Charges the battle between Joe Louis and Tommy Farr "isn't a straight fight" appeared in the British press as England planned to spend a sleepless night at radio parties listening to the broadcast from Yankee Stadium tonight.

Beverly Baxter, writing in the Sunday Graphic and the Sunday News, explained he believed both fighters were above suspicion but said that "the loading of the dice had been done by those who intend to keep the business of world championships in New York."

In a biting general criticism of the American press, New York boxing officials and promoters, Baxter asked could Farr beat Louis, "in a straight fight?—possibly."

PLAY SAFE WITH SILVERTOWNS

the only tire that gives you Golden Ply Blow-out Protection

WHEN your family piles into the car and you head for the mountains, lakes or seashore, remember this: THEIR LIVES ARE IN YOUR HANDS. And when thousands of people are killed or injured every year in blow-out accidents, it pays to think twice about your tires.

rich Silvertown Tire is built with the Life-Saver Golden Ply. This Goodrich invention is a layer of special rubber and full-floating cords, scientifically treated to resist this internal tire heat. By resisting heat inside the tire, the Golden Ply gives you real protection against these high-speed blow-outs.

EASY TERMS

Driving all Summer over hot roads makes short work of worn-out or inferior quality tires. Why take unnecessary chances when you can set your own terms on Goodrich Safety Silvertowns with the Life-Saver Golden Ply, as well as other items you need now for safe, trouble-free Fall and Winter driving. Just select what you need and pay as you are paid—on terms to suit your income.

Come in and investigate this modern, easy plan before you buy. It's "tuned to the times."

Many of the blow-outs that you hear and read about are due to the heat generated inside of all tires by today's higher driving speeds. As the flying wheels whirl over the highways this internal heat becomes so intense that rubber and fabric may begin to separate. A blister starts—grows bigger and BIGGER—until, sooner or later, BANG! A blow-out! And your life and the lives of your family are endangered.

But now, to provide you and everyone who drives with you, with real blow-out protection, every new Good-

Safer Miles—More Miles

Thousands of motorists all over America have found that Silvertowns below mean safety above. For your own peace of mind, for the protection of your family and friends, get a set of these long-mileage, life-saving tires. Goodrich Silvertowns actually cost less than other super-quality tires. C I O OPENS CONVENTION
TO PLAN MARITIME DRIVE

Lewis Committee Seeks to Organize Workers Into National Industrial Federation.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—John L. Lewis' Maritime Committee called to order today a convention of delegates representing labor groups from the Atlantic to the Pacific coasts, the opening shot of the CIO campaign to organize maritime workers into a national industrial federation.
Characterizing the convention as "a step toward a national federation of maritime workers," Mervyn Rathbone, New York, secretary of the committee, said the CIO campaign would encompass all men on ships, docks, warehouses, inland boatmen and fishermen and even fish processing workers. He said maritime unions represented included:

The Marine Cooks and Stewards of the Pacific, Island Boatmen's Union of the Pacific Coast, Federated Fishermen's Council of the Pacific, and the National Maritime Union, engineers, deck, stewards and Great Lakes divisions.
Members of the Maritime Committee include John Brophy, Washington, national CIO director, chairman; Rathbone, president of the American Communications Association; Harry Bridges of San Francisco, West Coast CIO director and president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Association; and Joseph Curran of New York, trustee of the National Maritime Union.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH
WORKERS SUE TO BAR
MOVING OF FACTORY

Injunction Sought by Union Members Against Schieber Millinery Co.

Petition for an injunction to prevent the Schieber Millinery Co., 1307 Washington avenue, from moving its factory out of St. Louis was filed in Circuit Court today by five members of Locals No. 55 and 56 of the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers' International Union, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.
The action was based on alleged breach of a contract which, the company says, provided that the company should continue operations in St. Louis during the life of the contract, which will expire about two years hence. Suit was filed in equity under the theory that an emergency existed, and that individual actions for damages would result in a multiplicity of lawsuits.
An order to show cause Thursday why a temporary restraining order should not be issued was directed by Judge Harry F. Russell to the company and two officers, named as defendants with the company. Individual defendants, as listed, are L. N. Schieber, president, and A. J. Rosenberg, vice-president.
The petition asserts the defendants plan to stop work at the St. Louis plant and move the business to De Soto, Mo., "for the purpose of circumventing provisions of a contract with the union and to secure non-union labor." The petitioners were told, it is alleged, that there was no more work for them as the company was going out of business.
The company, it is alleged, signed a contract with the union agreeing to continue operations in St. Louis during the life of the contract unless the company quit business altogether. The contract provided also, it is alleged, that there should be no stopping of work or lockout and that union members should be employed at stipulated wages. At union headquarters it was said the contract was signed last month, to run about two and a half years.
Although the contract provided for arbitration, it is set forth, the defendants have ignored a request to attend a labor board meeting for adjustment of differences. The petition adds that the plaintiffs are being deprived of their employment and the right to earn a living.
The petitioners are Morris Cooper, Mrs. Nora Bauman, Miss Mary Schulz, Miss Jennie Martin and Miss Louise Carril.
Rosenberg had no comment and Schieber could not be reached.

MORE CONDEMNATION SUITS FOR RIVERFRONT PARK LAND

Two additional suits to acquire by condemnation land in the 37-block tract designated for the $30,000,000 Jefferson Memorial National Park were filed in United States District Judge John Caskie Collet's court today by United States Attorney Harry C. Blanton. The suits bring to 16 the number filed thus far, each suit seeking title to the land within one city block.
The blocks sought in today's suits are bounded by Walnut, Elm, Second and Third streets, and by Elm, Clark avenue, Wharf and Main streets.
Twenty-one more suits will be filed within the next few weeks. Thirteen suits were filed in June and early July, after which there was a delay which ended last week with the resumption of proceedings by a new auxiliary legal staff.

RAILROAD MEDIATOR MEETS WITH BROTHERHOODS' HEADS

Conferences to Attempt to Settle Wage Demands of Workers Are Under Way.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Dr. William M. Leiserson of Washington, chairman of the National Railroad Mediation Board, today continued his efforts to dissolve a deadlock on wages between the nation's major carriers and the five operating brotherhoods.
He conferred this morning with chiefs of the brotherhoods—engineers, firemen, trainmen, conductors and switchmen—who have joined in a demand for a 20 per cent pay increase and said he would meet the carriers' conference committee later.

COURT AUTHORIZES PAYMENT
BY NATURAL BRIDGE BANK

10 Per Cent Liquidation Disbursement of $67,030 Will Bring Total Returned to $336,240.
A 10 per cent liquidating payment to depositors of the closed National Bridge Bank & Trust Co. was authorized today by Circuit Judge Harry F. Russell on petition of Paul J. Lerch, Special Deputy Commissioner of Finance in charge of the bank.
The disbursement, amounting to $67,030, will bring the total payments to creditors since liquidation began in 1933 to $336,240, or 80 per cent on outstanding claims, plus smaller payments made to preferred creditors.

KANSAS POSSE KILLS FUGITIVE FOUND AFTER TWO-DAY SEARCH

Tenant Farmer, Hunted as Killer of Two, Shot Down From Tree After Firing on Party.
By the Associated Press.
INDEPENDENCE, Kan., Aug. 30.—A fugitive who had been on the loose for two days when the posse stopped near the tree.
Carl Harder, a State Highway Patrolman, hearing the twig snap, looked up and saw the fugitive lying on a limb.
Foster began firing. Harder replied with a shotgun and soon others of the 22 searchers joined in.
The scene was less than a mile from where Charles Casey, Montgomery County under sheriff, was fatally wounded Friday night in an attempt to arrest Foster. Foster was wanted for questioning concerning the slaying of H. N. Kolb, 78 years old, wealthy farmer, whose body was found in a rude grave on his farm.
Deputy Sheriff Gerald Gibson, slightly wounded by Foster after the shooting of Casey, expressed belief the fugitive had saved one bullet to take his own life. A nover burn marked a wound in Foster's right temple.

COUNTY OFFERS TWO SITES FOR STATE CANCER HOSPITAL

One on North and South Road and Other on Lindbergh Blvd. North of Olive.
The St. Louis County Court today offered to give the State either of two county sites for the new State Cancer Hospital for indigents. In a telegram to Gov. Stark, the court said ground would be available on the County Hospital tract on North and South road or on a 39-acre lot on Lindbergh boulevard, a half mile north of Olive street road.
Letters confirming the offer and presenting arguments for the selection of St. Louis County for the hospital site were sent today to the Governor and to Dr. Ellis Fischel, chairman of the four-member commission which will supervise construction and operation of the institution. The Legislature appropriated $600,000 to build the hospital and maintain it for a year.
Under the court's plan, the Lindbergh boulevard site, if acceptable to the State, would be purchased by the county from a school fund. The school fund is in trust for Columbia, Mexico, Lebanon, Moberly and many other cities of the State. The school fund has made requests for the institution.

CHICAGOAN VISITING SISTER KILLED IN FALL IN STREET

His Head Hits Curb and Leslie Grant, 34, Dies of Fractured Skull.
Leslie Grant of Chicago was fatally injured at 1 o'clock this morning when he fell from a curb, his head striking the pavement, after leaving the home of his sister, Mrs. Geneva Ousley, at 4101A Labadie avenue. He suffered a fractured skull and died two hours later at City Hospital.
An employee of the American Can Co., he came to St. Louis yesterday to visit relatives. Apparently he lost his balance when attempting to step to the curb after crossing the street as he left Mrs. Ousley's home. He was 34 years old.

DRIVER BEATEN HE SAYS
Reports Three Men Attacked Him After Collision.

Lester Jenkins, 5874A Theodosia avenue, reported to the Sheriff's office in Clayton that he had been attacked Saturday night by three men following a minor automobile accident.
He said he was driving east in the 7400 block of St. Charles road when an automobile in front of him stopped suddenly, causing him to rear back. When he stepped out of his car to discuss the damage, he said, three men got out of the other automobile, two of whom held him while the third beat him several times on the back of the head and shoulders with a tire tool.
Seven Persons Accused of Sale of Non-Necessaries.
Arrests for alleged violation of the State law against sale of non-necessaries on Sunday were made yesterday at four stores on commodities of the Retail Grocers' Association.
Those arrested, as they were booked by police, were: Abraham Baker and his three sons, Simon, Morris and Benjamin, in a grocery store at 1801 Currier street; Nicholas Nottis, a confectioner at 12 South Jefferson avenue; Mrs. Dora Cutler, grocery and meat market, 2358 Carr street; and Nathan L. Davis, fish market, 3222 Laclede avenue.

Veterans Honor Boy Scout.
BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 30.—Veterans of Foreign Wars, holding their national encampment here today, presented Morrill T. Vittum of Haverhill, Mass., with a gold medal and a $300 scholarship as the country's outstanding boy scout. In the summer of 1935, Vittum saved a companion in a swimming accident and that, with his scholarship, church leadership and athletic prowess, gained him the award.

Girl, 11, Hurt in Fall on Stairs.
Dolores Hoffer, 11-year-old, suffered fractures of the skull and ribs yesterday when she stumbled and fell down a flight of outside stairs from the attic to the back porch of her home, 4935A North Market street. She was taken to City Hospital. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hoffer.

YOUTH, 18, DROWNED
IN GRANITE CITY POOL

Woodrow Dalton Loses Life After Shouting, "I'll Swim or Drown."

Woodrow Dalton, 1051 College avenue, Venice, was drowned while attempting to swim in five feet of water yesterday afternoon in the Wilson Park pool at Granite City. He was 18 years old. Shortly before he disappeared he had shouted to his sister, Margaret, 15, "I'll swim or drown." He was on the diving platform at the time.
The girl said her brother had eaten a large dinner and had complained of stomach pains during the day. Neither could swim well. Dalton had been employed as a helper in the service department of a furniture store in Granite City.
After dinner, he and his sister and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dalton, had driven to the swimming pool and although he was not particularly eager about going in the water he did go in when his sister asked him to accompany her, she said. When he shouted that he would swim or drown she thought he was joking and paid no attention to him.
Miss Helen Worthen, 15, daughter of William M. Worthen, president of the Granite City Park Board, a few minutes later, went down a water slide into the pool and touched a body on the bottom. She notified a life guard, who brought the body to the surface. The Granite City inhaleur corps and three physicians failed to revive Dalton after an hour and a half.
Yesterday was the final day of the swimming season at Wilson Park. The pool was to close last night, but instead was ordered closed immediately after the drowning at 3 o'clock, when there were about 150 persons in the water. It was the second drowning there in 15 years.

TWO HELD, ACCUSED BY MAN OF BEATING AND ROBBING HIM

Presley Merrell Says Men Told Him They Were Detectives; Took $85 Watch.
Presley Merrell, 3006A St. Vincent avenue, reported to police Saturday night that he had been beaten and robbed of an $85 wrist watch by two men he had met earlier in the evening in a tavern at 4100 Manchester avenue.
The men represented themselves as detectives, Merrell said, and threatened to arrest him for investigation. He offered to buy them each a pint of whisky, he stated, and they drove to another tavern to make the purchase. Afterward they took him in their automobile to an alley in the 4100 block of De Tonty street, where they took his watch after beating him with their fists and a revolver, he reported.
In front of a tavern near this alley, police arrested two men who were identified by Merrell as his assailants and who had two pints of whisky and a hat which Merrell said was his. They denied ever having seen Merrell before.

COLORADO COLLISION KILLS 7

Auto Speeding Around Curve Crashes Head-on Into Truck.
By the Associated Press.
CRAIG, Colo., Aug. 30.—Seven persons were killed yesterday in an automobile-truck collision. The victims—six men and a woman—were riding in a small sedan. The two occupants of the truck escaped serious injury. The dead were residents of Craig.
Paul Moss, State highway patrolman, said witnesses told him the sedan roared around a gradual curve at 70 to 80 miles an hour and crashed head-on with the truck.

STUTTGART, Germany, Aug. 30.—A challenge to the right of foreign governments to interfere with the activities of Nazi organizers abroad was delivered yesterday by Baron Konstantin von Neurath, German Foreign Minister, in an address at a rally here of 60,000 foreign resident Germans from all over the world, including the United States.

Neurath declared he would not recognize the right of foreign governments to interfere with or prohibit the organization of German National Socialist (Nazi) units abroad. He said the Nazi party had no imperialist aims, but insisted that Germans living in foreign countries were privileged to give expression to their Nazi sympathies.

"We have no thought of going contrary to the generally accepted rules regulating the rights of foreigners," the Foreign Minister asserted, "but we will not tolerate it if foreign governments should discriminate against Germans within their boundaries because of Nazi affiliations."

Germans abroad, he continued, are expected to respect the laws of the country in which they are domiciled, "as long as they observe these laws they cannot be privileged from giving expression to their loyalty to the National Socialist cause and to the German fatherland."

Stuttgart, which is jammed with delegates to the fifth congress of Germans abroad, was dedicated yesterday as "the city of foreign Germans." All departments of the Nazi Government have been mobilized to create an atmosphere of well-being and plenty for the homecoming Germans.

For the first time in nearly two years, food stores are filled with hams and butcher shops are festooned with every variety of Wuerstemberg sausage.

Wuerstemburgers, who have been deprived of whipped cream since the beginning of Colonel-General Hermann Wilhelm Goerring's four-year plan to make the Reich economically self-sufficient, crowded into pastry shops to buy the rich cakes baked especially for the visiting Germans.

Even Dr. Hjalmar Schacht's rigid control of foreign currency was relaxed sufficiently to permit drug stores and beauty shops to lay in large supplies of French and American toilet articles and cosmetics.

For the first time in four years this correspondent has been able to purchase an American tooth paste at a price not greater than that prevailing in the United States.

Hitler's "Understanding." Another speaker was Ernest Bohle, British-born leader of the Nazi Foreign Organization, which sponsors these annual rallies. Bohle declared Chancellor Hitler, by his recent decree making the Nazi Foreign Organization a branch of the Reich Foreign Office, showed his "understanding" of the importance of this arm of the Nazi party.

Branding as traitors all German living abroad "who while professing Nationalist sympathies at the same time help the opponents of the Third Reich," Bohle asserted that the success of German industrial and commercial enterprises abroad would be greater if the persistent engaged in these enterprises continued to fulfill their duties as loyal German citizens.

"Whoever lives abroad as a German business man or as a commercial representative is working not for himself but primarily in the service of the German Fatherland," Bohle concluded.

Rudolf Hess, Hitler's deputy, told the delegates that National Socialists abroad were expected to be of domicile as they would to their own German Fatherland. He commended the foreign-resident Nazis to tell the people of their adopted countries when they returned that "the Fatherland remembers all of its people living in foreign countries and the Fatherland takes interest in their destinies and shares their troubles and their needs."

Plea Read in Churches. In the face of the arrest of 12 more pastors, bringing to 120 the total of Protestant clergymen and prominent laymen now jailed for defying Nazi church authorities, a man calling on the German Evangelical Church to "endure faithfully and hold steadfast to its beliefs"

GERMANY INSISTS ON NAZIS' RIGHT TO ORGANIZE ABROAD

Foreign Minister Expounds Policy at Stuttgart Rally of 60,000 Residing in Other Countries.

U. S. DELEGATES HEAR HIS SPEECH

(Copyright, 1937, New York Tribune, Inc.)
STUTTGART, Germany, Aug. 30.—A challenge to the right of foreign governments to interfere with the activities of Nazi organizers was delivered yesterday by Baron Konstantin von Neurath, German Foreign Minister, in an address at a rally here of 60,000 foreign resident Germans from all over the world, including the United States.

Neurath declared he would not recognize the right of foreign governments to interfere with or prohibit the organization of German National Socialist (Nazi) units abroad. He said the Nazi party had no imperialist aims, but insisted that Germans living in foreign countries were privileged to give expression to their Nazi sympathies.

"We have no thought of going contrary to the generally accepted rules regulating the rights of foreign governments," the Foreign Minister asserted, "but we will not tolerate it if foreign governments should discriminate against Germans within their boundaries because of Nazi affiliations."

China and Soviet Union Sign Non-Aggression Pact; Neither Pledges Aid Against Third Party

Each to Withhold Aid From Attacker—Treaty As Concerns War With Japan Is Only Gesture of Sympathy.

(By the Associated Press.)
NANKING, Aug. 30.—The Chinese Government yesterday announced conclusion of a non-aggression pact with the Soviet Union, which, however, does not bind Russia to come to China's aid against Japanese aggression.

The announcement indicated that as concerns China's present undeclared war against Japan the new treaty is only a gesture of Russian sympathy and moral support.

The Nanking Foreign Office, in a communique, referred to Japan as "China's aggressor," but said if Japan would change her national policy China would be willing to conclude a similar non-aggression pact with her.

The communique said, "Great hopes are entertained" concerning the agreement with Moscow, adding that it might "prove a turning point for general improvement of the Far Eastern situation."

Does Not Call for Military Aid. Foreign authorities found nothing in the official version of the new treaty to support any expectation of Russian material or military support for China against Japan.

The Chinese Government announced that the treaty with Russia follows the general principles of the Briand-Kellogg pact of 1928. China and the Soviet Union, the announcement said, reaffirm the principles contained in the 1928 treaty for renunciation of war.

The two contracting parties once more declare that they condemn recourse to war for the solution of international controversies and renounce it as an instrument of national policy in relations with each other.

TWO SHOT, SEVEN ARE SENTENCED TO DEATH IN RUSSIA

"Rightist Traitors" to Be Executed for Collective Farm Wrecking Activities, Officials Announce.

(By the Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Dr. Henry B. Collins of the Smithsonian Institution said today there was no doubt the Eskimos of Alaska and Canada came from Northern Eurasia (Europe and Asia) and were perhaps the first North American immigrants.

Dr. Collins, Assistant Curator of Ethnology, said the expedition which he headed last summer to St. Lawrence Island discovered new evidence that the Eskimos not only migrated from Siberia to as far east as Greenland but then turned back and migrated westward again to Alaska.

Dr. Collins' most recent study, just published by the institution, was awarded the gold medal of the Royal Academy of Sciences and Letters of Denmark last year as the outstanding contribution to knowledge of the origins and migrations of the Eskimo.

He said today that two great culture waves undoubtedly came out of Asia, one that of a coast-dwelling people who obtained their living from the sea, and the other that of an inland people who were forest hunters. Traces of both cultures, mixed and changed, can still be found among the Alaska Eskimos.

MOSCOW, Aug. 30.—Death sentences were handed down today against seven confessed "rightist traitors" in agriculture, one of them a woman manager of a tractor station, for alleged plotting to wreck collective farming.

Two women were executed at Leningrad yesterday after a court martial convicted them of poisoning food at a children's home.

As the "purge" of alleged enemies of the regime spread through the Leningrad area, the court announced that the women had been "systematically poisoning food" at the children's home in the village of Sosnaya Poliana, Krasnaya Zvezda district.

It was alleged that 12 children, ranging in ages from 8 to 11, were poisoned, but prompt medical treatment saved their lives.

MATANUSKA COLONIST REPORTS LIGHT CROPS

Shortage of Water Blamed; He Declares That Food Will Be Plentiful, However.

(By the Associated Press.)
SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 30.—Because it didn't snow enough last winter, crops were smaller this summer in the Federal Government's Matanuska Valley colony in Alaska.

"Snow and frost supply the water for our crops, and when there's not enough snow there's not enough water," explained Colonist Dave Onkka, formerly of Ontonagon County, Michigan, who was here today on a trip.

"But we're not worried," he declared. "Colonists concentrated on livestock, poultry and dairy products, which eventually will be our main business."

An error involving a Government purchase of red Russian winter wheat instead of spring wheat also contributed to the crop decrease, Onkka said. He added:

"We have a wide variety of vegetables this year. Some of the valley's black, rich loam produced excellent barley this year—some yielding 22 bushels to the acre."

"Yes, I have a farm—40 acres, and what is more, I like it. I have never been as well satisfied any place I have lived. I don't have dust storms, I don't have to dig 200 feet for water to drink, I don't have to build irrigation ditches to get water to make things grow. Everything grows well, in spite of lack of snow and frost."

"There are now 180 families in the colony, and many families who were there before we came. There have been irritations and petty annoyances in the colony, but the cauldron won't boil over."

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Henry Ford thinks the educational system is responsible for farming problems.

HEADS PENAL BOARD

WARDEN SANDERS NAMED TO STATE PRISON BOARD

(By the Associated Press.)
JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 30.—Reorganization of the State Prison Board was completed today with the appointment by Gov. Stark of Warden J. M. Sanders as the third member.

Sanders succeeds George D. Bryant of Marshall, whose term expired Aug. 3. In addition to serving on the penal board, he will continue as prison warden, a position he had held for the last four years.

James E. Matthews, highway maintenance engineer at Sikeston, was appointed director of the Penal Board by the Governor, Friday, succeeding Stephen B. Hunter of Cape Girardeau. Paul V. Benz of Platte County, was reappointed Farm Commissioner on the board.

Bryant had been designated as Parole Commissioner, but the duties of his job will be transferred, under a State law becoming effective Sept. 6, to the new State Probations and Paroles Board.

BAR REPORT FAVORS WAGNER ACT REVISION

Says Social Security Law Also Must Be Changed to Be Workable.

(By the Associated Press.)
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 30.—The Committee on Labor Employment and Social Security of the American Bar Association said today that the Wagner National Labor Relations Act and the Social Security Act would require substantial amendment before they could be made workable.

In a report to be presented at the annual convention here late in September, the committee says events since the Supreme Court upheld the National Labor Relations Act indicated that "important amendments, going to the substance of the act, will be required to make its administration acceptable, particularly in order to safeguard public interest as distinct from the interest of the employer and the employee."

Concerning social security, the report recommends consideration of "whether the reserve funds should be invested in governmental securities only or whether the theory of an invested reserve should be replaced by the 'pay as you go' system."

The majority report is signed by John Lord O'Brien, chairman, Buffalo, N. Y.; Hedy V. Richardson, Detroit; Charles Denby Jr., Pittsburgh; and Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Washington, D. C.

Lloyd K. Garrison of the University of Wisconsin Law School said in a minority report: "I agree with the committee that the (National Labor Relations) act ought to be amended to deal with breaches of collective agreements by unions, though I think such an amendment cannot feasibly be based on compulsion but should rather take the form of withholding the benefits and protection of the act from those employees and their representatives who induce such breaches."

Passenger on Ter Aviv Bus Shot by Men in Passing Auto—Another Found in Well. JERUSALEM, Aug. 30.—Three Jews and an Arab were shot to death today in a series of assaults. A Jewish passenger on a bus was killed by shots from a passing automobile between Tel Aviv and Jerusalem.

An Arab walking to work in the residential section of Jerusalem was killed. His assassin fled from police. Police linked this with the murder on the bus.

A Jew was found dead in the bottom of a well and another in a field, both shot. They had lived on the Karkur Sharon plain.

IT ISN'T THE RATE IT'S THE LIQUIDITY

The rate of interest (2%) we pay on savings is high, as savings rates go. But the rate isn't the only reason you get more interest here. The other is the absolute liquidity of your interest earning money—allowing you to deposit when you please and start earning interest from date, and to get interest right up to date of withdrawal by giving 30 days' notice. This makes it possible to deposit and withdraw your money as you please, while never losing a day's interest.

Other advantages of the 6-Advantage Savings Account are deposits insured to $5000, most convenient hours, and a bank where you can borrow under many plans, some requiring only your unsecured note. Open an account and establish your credit.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always be devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Arrogance of County Justice Courts.

Y OUR editorial about the conniving J. P.'s of St. Louis County was perfectly timed. Only this past week, a friend and myself were forced to shell out $8.20 to pay for the supposed felony of driving 60 miles an hour, recklessly and carelessly, through heavy traffic on Highway 66.

Driving through the county at a speed not exceeding 45 miles per hour, we were accosted by a deputy and given a ticket. When I suggested that 50 other cars were driving at the same rate of speed on this highway, I was told, "Another word out of you and you'll go to jail for 20 hours."

When my friend went over to the J. P. at Clayton to try to straighten the matter out, he was maliciously informed that he was to pay $8.20 or else pay court costs amounting to $18. Handing over the $8.20, he asked for a receipt, which the J. P. refused to give him. Surely, if this was a legal, moral and upstanding procedure, the receipt would have been tendered.

How can we citizens have respect for the law and its so-called defenders when such deceptive and fraudulent practices are allowed?

AN INDIGNANT CITIZEN.

Recalling Lindbergh's Words.

I WANT to repeat a few words that Lindbergh had said more than a year ago in Berlin, when he discussed frankly the relation of aviation to peace.

He said that if another war broke out, armies and navies would be completely useless, because they could be wiped out by planes. With deep earnestness, he warned that civilization would be destroyed unless common sense, tolerance and self-denial were brought to bear on the problem.

View of an Ex-Textile Operator.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH:

AS a former textile operator, coming from Massachusetts, I am naturally a Republican, but in fairness to all, I hereby charge the New England Republicans with disturbing our economic status, as the New England states were the first to pass legislation regulating hours and wages in industry.

This, of course, caused a great many industries to move to various points in the South, and if the exodus is not stopped by national legislation, such as existed under the N. R. A., we in the North will soon find ourselves on the precipice of economic despair, as I know from experience that Northern textile manufacturers positively cannot meet Southern competition and make a profit.

This is clearly exemplified in the recent bankruptcy of the Amoskeag company of Manchester, N. H., once employing 20,000 men and women, the oldest textile plant in America. They can be seen that if the politicians left the question of hours and wages to the employers and employees, we would not now be faced with such intense economic problems, causing our cities to decay to an alarming degree.

I ask you, what will the answer be in 20 years if the South makes as much industrial progress in that period as it has in the past?

FAIR PLAY.

Sales Tax and the Utilities.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH:

I TAKE exception to the ruling of G. F. Bates, supervisor of the sales tax for the State Auditor, on the question of the proper scale of taxation for public utilities in making out bills, viz.: no tax up to 25 cents, 1 cent on 26 cents up to 67 cents, 2 cents on 68 cents to $1.12. Does Mr. Bates know that the utilities receive no service for 25 or 26 cents, but do have minimum charges of 50 cents on electricity and 75 cents on gas?

It was my understanding that the 2 per cent sales tax meant just what it said, 2 per cent, and not 1 cent on 26 cents and 2 cents on 68 cents, whether in goods or services. Since it is the consumer who pays the tax, I am wondering if this ruling was conceived in his own mind as a special privilege to tax utilities and as a convenience to avoid use of mills. We don't want Mr. Bates' advice to the utilities on tricky billing or sleight-of-hand performance when it is we, the public, who pay the tax.

Nazi Nests.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH:

UNQUESTIONABLY, a number of your real American readers will express just and vehement resentment at the news that the local "nest" of the dangerous and un-American Nazis is permitted to desecrate our beloved Forest Park on Sunday, Aug. 8, flaunting the bloody flag of a foreign dictatorship and shouting treasonable "heils" of allegiance to a sadistic European leader.

As an ex-soldier of 1918, I do not at all agree with your editorial of Aug. 10 that these rascally Nazis should be allowed to pursue their course and growth unchecked, thereby merely "fouling their own nests," as you put it. In my view, if this element is tolerated, it will in time contaminate our form of government and cherished institutions.

Now, or later we shall have an internal problem of major proportions to deal with.

H. ALBERT.

HOW THEY VOTED.

For all the talk of independence in the last session of Congress, the voting was, with few exceptions, along party lines. The revolt in the Senate on the President's Supreme Court bill and such other defections only proved the rule of loyalty to the party.

On virtually every issue voted upon during the session, the top-heavy Democratic majority and the negligible Republican minority split sharply. A check of the roll calls shows that repassage over Mr. Roosevelt's veto of the farm loan interest bill was one of the very few contested issues on which majorities of both parties in both chambers lined up together.

How did members of the Missouri delegation perform? Was there in this State's representation any show of independence worth noticing? Senator Clark and Senator Truman split on limiting the R. F. C. extension to one year, Clark being on the losing side, as extension to June 30, 1939, was approved. Both voted against the defeated bill for a general limitation on tariff cuts and the subsequent defeated bill for a limitation on farm tariff cuts. Both voted for the approved three-year extension of the President's authority to enter into reciprocal trade agreements with foreign governments.

Clark and Truman split again on the court-packing bill, Clark being one of the leading opponents and Truman one of the 18 Democrats who stood by the President even on the motion to send the bill back to committee. Both voted for the act according Supreme Court Justices retirement privileges of other Judges, and both voted against recommending the Black appointment and then for Justice Black's confirmation.

Clark was one of the 11 to vote against the naval appropriation bill and one of the 15 to oppose the conference report on the neutrality bill. Truman was not recorded on the former and voted for the latter. Other significant roll calls and the vote of the Missouri Senators were as follows:

	Clark	Truman
Anti-air-down strike amendment	Clark	Truman
Revised Coal Control Act	Clark	Truman
$112,000,000 T. V. A. dam	Clark	Truman
2-year limit for C. C. C.	Clark	Truman
25% state support of relief	Clark	Truman
2-year limit on nuisance taxes	Clark	Truman
Personal income surtax increase	Clark	Truman
Override farm loan interest	Clark	Truman
Table anti-lunching rider to hour bill	Clark	Truman
Recommit wage-hour bill	Clark	Truman
Passage of wage-hour bill	Clark	Truman
Housing $4000 unit cost	Clark	Truman
Wagner housing bill	Clark	Truman

Although no two of the 13 House members of the Missouri delegation have identical voting records in the session, their record on the whole is one of allegiance to party point of view. All voted for the reciprocal tariff extension except Short, the lone Republican, and Shannon, who was not recorded. All voted for the Supreme Court retirement bill except Short, Shannon and Wood, the second and third being unrecorded. All voted against or were announced against the peacetime munitions embargo except Anderson, who voted for it, and Short, paired for it.

All voted for the bill for $1,500,000,000 for relief in 1938 except Short, opposed, and Cannon, not recorded. All voted for the administration's departmental reorganization bill except the same two. All voted for the Wagner housing bill except Short, opposed, and Nelson, unrecorded. Only Cochran sustained the President's veto of the bill to continue low farm loan interest rates, but Hennings was not recorded. All voted to extend the nuisance taxes except Nelson and Short, opposed, and Shannon and Zimmerman, unrecorded.

On the other important roll calls, Missouri's House members voted as follows:

Anti-lunching bill—For, Cochran, Anderson, Hennings, Short and Shannon; against, Romjue, Nelson, Duncan, Williams, Cannon and Zimmerman; not recorded, Bell and Wood.

Repeal corporate salary publicity—For, Anderson, Hennings and Bell; against, Cochran, Zimmerman, Williams, Wood, Nelson and Romjue; not recorded, Duncan, Shannon, Short and Cannon.

Income tax for members of Congress—For, Cannon and Nelson; against, Cochran, Anderson, Romjue, Duncan, Wood, Short and Williams; not recorded, Hennings, Bell, Shannon and Zimmerman.

Exemptions from civil service for new Federal employees—For, Anderson, Zimmerman, Cannon, Williams, Bell, Duncan and Nelson; against, Cochran and Short; unrecorded, Hennings, Romjue, Shannon and Wood.

Aside from the general observation made at the outset, the delegation's record is not subject to sharply defined analysis. Each man's record will need to be reviewed by the voter in terms of his own convictions. In the Senate, Bennett Clark's performance reflects a spirit of independence. In the House, where many members duck embarrassing votes, Cochran, Anderson and Williams made a point of being in their seats and voting on every important roll call.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

By the terms of the postponement, the proposed anti-lunching legislation was granted preferred status in the next session of Congress. The Wheeler-Johnson child labor bill was not so favored, but its prompt reconsideration should be an item of first business either at the regular session, convening next January, or a special session, which the President is said to be considering for fall. This double-barreled attack on the exploitation of children in industry and large-scale agriculture passed the Senate without opposition in the closing hours of the last session, only to be caught in the jam in the House. Unquestionably, it would have been passed and sent to the President had there been several more days before adjournment.

In any event, the enactment of Federal child labor legislation remains unfinished business that cannot be finished too soon.

SLAUGHTER OF THE PINES.

Secretary Ickes was roused to wrath the other day, and it was righteous wrath. The spectacle that so moved him was that of logging crews at work in a 7200-acre tract of rare sugar pines adjoining Yellowstone Park, slashing and felling these magnificent trees, some 240 feet tall and described as unequalled anywhere, although Congress and the President had taken steps to preserve them. A bill was passed July 2 to purchase the tract for addition to the park. But because the appropriation was delayed, the logging company continued its operations at top speed, heedless of requests by the National Park Service to stay its axes and saws.

To Mr. Ickes, this was "the conservation crimes of the nineteenth century repeated." He was bitter over the fact that "a commercial interest, to which the Government is prepared to offer just recompense, is extracting its last pound of profit against a declared public policy and in defiance of a formal Government request."

Fortunately, the tract was saved at the eleventh hour from further ravishment. Just before adjournment, the Senate agreed to a conference report approving the deficiency bill item of $2,005,000 for purchase of the tract. Though irreparably damaged in part, the tract's future now is assured. But the episode proves that, although public lethargy on conservation has been overcome, there is still need, in the movement to preserve the country's natural resources, to fight continually the ruthless greed of private interests.

PURPOSE OF THE NAZI CAMPS.

On request of Attorney-General Cummings, the Federal Bureau of Investigation began an inquiry last week into the activities of Nazi camps in the United States. It is "really more of a check-up than a formal investigation," Mr. Cummings says, but the findings should afford valuable information for guiding public opinion, whether or not any action can be taken by the Government.

Under our democratic system, members of these camps are free to hell Hitler and salute the swastika to their heart's content, if that is all they do. There is no law to prevent their making fools of themselves and earning the contempt or pity of the community in which they reside.

What, precisely, is the purpose of these camps and clubs? Their leaders, in St. Louis and elsewhere, deny that they have any connection with the German Nazis and insist their objectives are only cultural and recreational.

The Nazis at home have a different idea. An article in the Stuttgart Kurier, party organ in that city, is quoted by a New York Times correspondent as setting forth the following program for the "American Nazi" movement:

We desire to bring back the Germans in the United States to the racial unity and common faith of all Germans. To this end, the intellectual and spiritual reform of Americans of German extraction is necessary in accord with the model furnished by the old homeland.

When we have attained this goal, we will then organize German-Americans for spiritual regeneration, economic support and political schooling. German-American influence, thus economically strengthened and politically reactivated, shall then be thrown in the balance under our leadership for the coming struggle with Communism and Jews and for the Americans' regeneration.

These German-Americans are today prepared to enlist in the final struggle and take their place in America's political life while preserving their German Weltanschauung and racial character in order to exercise a determining influence on the new America.

This is frank, and it is official. The statement leaves the American spokesmen, with their avowals of innocent purposes, condemned as dishonest or deluded. The outline of purposes means an attempt by alien forces to influence American institutions, and to implant bigotry and intolerance here.

It is a statement that should give first aid to the G-men in their survey of these activities.

BEEF AND DIPLOMACY.

In criticizing the quarantine of the United States against Argentine beef, in his speech in St. Louis last week, Dr. William E. Dunn of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce placed his finger on one of the sore spots of Pan-American diplomatic relations.

Argentina, the chief political antagonist of the United States in South America, has been particularly bitter over the reflection which the quarantine casts upon her whole cattle industry.

The Hawley-Smoot Tariff Act of 1930 provided that the agricultural products of an entire nation might be excluded if contagious animal or plant diseases existed in any part of it. Thus, although the hoof-and-mouth disease is only periodically prevalent in certain of the Argentine provinces, all the meat exports of the country have been banned.

Secretary Hull and Argentine Ambassador Espil signed a treaty in 1935 which provided for a fairer and more scientific means of enforcing the sanitary regulations in regard to beef imports. But despite all the efforts of Secretary Hull and President Roosevelt, the Senate Agriculture Committee, several of whose members are from cattle-growing states, has kept the treaty from being ratified.

Since Argentina, the arbiter of South American diplomacy, gives equal weight to protecting her beef exports and excluding war from the Western Hemisphere, the deadlock on the Hull-Espil Convention threatens the whole good-neighbor policy of the United States.

Failure to ratify the Hull-Espil Treaty is a mistake which the Senate should correct when Congress reconvenes.

OPINION BY FORMER JUSTICE VAN DEVANTER.

The discussion as to whether or not the retirement of Willis Van Devanter in June created a Supreme Court vacancy has been revived by the former Justice's announcement at Marion, Ind., his birthplace, that he "would be glad to continue his service to the public by accepting an assignment in some Federal circuit."

This suggests the question: What does Mr. Van Devanter think of the argument of Senator Borah and others that his retirement did not create a vacancy and that with the confirmation of Justice Black, the Supreme Court actually has a membership of 10. As the former Justice is known as an authority on procedural points, his opinion is worth having.

Well, he feels very definitely that his retirement created a vacancy and has told intimates precisely that, it is reported. He feels, moreover, that the passage of the Sumners-McCarran Act, guaranteeing retiring Supreme Court Justices the rights and privileges accorded to other Judges, did not increase the emoluments of Supreme Court Justices and that the law, therefore, is no bar to the appointment of members of Congress who voted for it. To support the latter contention, Mr. Van Devanter cites the 1919 Judiciary Act, providing for retirement of Circuit and District Judges, some of whose seats were later filled by members of Congress who voted for the law.

As for Senator Borah's point, he might have found the answer in the pertinent text of the Retirement Act, which reads in part:

Justices of the Supreme Court are hereby granted the same rights and privileges with regard to retiring, instead of resigning, granted to Judges other than Justices of the Supreme Court. . . . And the President shall be authorized to appoint a successor to any such Justice of the Supreme Court so retiring from regular active service on the bench.

Dare Science Say "Never"?

Edison had no hopes for wireless, and Kelvin "proved" airplane was impossible, writer says; thinks frequency of success, despite learned scoffers, should restrain scientists from defeatist attitude; urges open mind even on dreams now ridiculed by the orthodox, such as interplanetary flight, rocket plane and smashing of the atom.

George W. Gray, Writer on Scientific Subjects, in Coronet.

IT is surprising to find how many eminent men of science, distinguished discoverers and inventors, men of open minds and far vision, have put themselves on record in some stultifying expression of pessimism.

Even Edison was not free of this myopia. In 1906, when wireless telegraphy was operating in a feeble way, he was asked, "What is the outlook for wireless telephony?" The great innovator answered, "It does not exist."

Equally eminent authorities voted against the airplane. Lord Kelvin, whose adventurous science made the trans-Atlantic cable a reality after several practical men had botched the job, was quite certain that a flying machine was a physical impossibility. He proved it to his own satisfaction by the laws of physics.

Kelvin's pronouncement was seconded in America by the eminent mathematician, Simon Newcomb, chief astronomer at the Naval Observatory. Just as ostriches and other birds above a certain weight do not fly, so machines above a certain avoirdupois would be incapable of lifting themselves in sustained flight. Newcomb suggested that if successful airplanes were attained, they must of necessity be small, lightweight mechanisms like watches.

"If the watchmaker can make a machine which will fly through the room, then, by combining 10,000 such machines, he may be able to carry a man," ventured Newcomb.

Since these authorities failed so widely in their estimates of what could be managed within the law of nature, we need not take too seriously the shrugs with which some present-day authorities react to the mention of other human dreams.

There is very much alive today, for example, the dream of interplanetary flight. The problems involved are beyond those of aeronautics, just as the problems of telephony were beyond those of telegraphy—but the lessons of successful aerial flight are giving pointers and hints and warnings and guides to a future technique of space navigation which the specialists have named "astronautics."

Astronautics has its laboratories, usually isolated fields, where open-air experiments may be performed without attracting onlookers or endangering the lives of outsiders. It has its technical journals, its technical societies, student clubs and ardent amateurs, both participants and backers.

A spaceship cannot be just an enlarged present-day airplane, but must be a new machine or a multiplication of planes. Since it must leave the atmosphere and navigate the vacuum of interplanetary space, it cannot depend on propeller, rudder and other air-minded devices, but must substitute some entirely different principle of propulsion and steering.

When I mentioned the rocket to a professor of aeronautics seven years ago, he laughed. "Are you asking me to discuss the rocket as a practical power device?"

Why not? The steam engine, the dynamo and the gasoline motor were feeble toys at first, but each had advance from infancy through step after step of experiment and improvement before the present different types were attained. Rocket research is occupying the time of a few pioneering physicists today. In another seven years, we may look for courses in rocket engineering in some of the more progressive schools.

Perhaps the problem will not be solved until some entirely new fuel is obtained—something that is able to release a maximum of energy from a minimum weight of material, and to release it under the control of man. Even when oxygen is delivered to the gasoline or other combustible in concentrated liquid form, as in the rocket experiments, the energy released as a result of the burning is only an infinitesimal fraction of the energy resident in these liquids. Scientists call this resident energy atomic energy. This is the energy of matter itself, compared with which the chemical energy of combustion is quite trivial.

If we use a pound of gasoline in the best internal combustion engine of today, we get about one kilowatt-hour of energy. But, if instead of merely exploding the gasoline, we were able to pack the masses of its atoms into energy, so that there would be no exhaust gases, no residue or waste of any kind, but complete transformation of matter into energy, calculation shows that the yield from the pound of gasoline would be 11,300,000,000 kilowatt-hours.

There can be no more compact storage than this arrangement of atomic energy. If our power requirements were 1000 kilowatts per hour continuously, or 24,000 a day, our one pound of material would provide fuel sufficient for more than 1200 years. Nor is it only gasoline that packs this tremendous load of energy. A pound of air, a pound of sand, everything, contains the same.

If we find a way to release and control only a small percentage of this resource, all present practices of power production become obsolete. Each household, each individual, each machine, will have an inexhaustible source of energy always at hand, and central generating plants and transmission lines will be superfluous.

I must add the caution of certain eminent authorities. There are those today who say that this dream is completely wild, who point out that more energy is required to smash atoms than is released from the few that get smashed, and that therefore hope of atomic energy as an economic source of power is futile, never to be attained.

Can a scientist afford to use the word "never" in a serious sense? I doubt it. Remembering what happened to the forecasts of Newcomb, Kelvin and Edison, and to other pessimistic prognostications of learned experts of earlier generations; seeing how adaptable is nature and marking what the techniques of man have accomplished within her iron law, I object to the recognition of any "Never, Never Land" of science.

The important rule to remember is that science predominates is positive, progressive, affirmative—and that a negative attitude has been so often discredited in the history of its various techniques that negativism is no longer to be taken seriously.

The conquest of matter, the conquest of space, the conquest of aging, even the conquest of death—who would dare write "never" to a one of these dreams? The least difficult may require the efforts of generations of experimenters yet unborn, but nature must yield if man perseveres.

OPERA ENDS WITH NEW ATTENDANCE RECORD

774,958 Persons Saw Performances in Forest Park During 19th Season.

The Municipal Opera, which closed its nineteenth season with a performance of Robert Stolz' "Wild Violets" before a capacity house last night, had an attendance for the season of 774,958, a new record.

This was an increase of 26,898 over the previous record of 748,060 established last year. There were 87 performances last year but only 86 this season, one performance (the Saturday night show of "The Prince of Fieslen") having been rained out.

Figures for both years include the 1700 persons who sat each night in the free seats in the rear of the amphitheater in Forest Park. Subtracting these, a total of 628,758 persons paid to see the 12 shows put on this year. On some occasions when all seats bought and free, were taken, there were 1000 persons on the outside of the grounds, but these were never counted in the official attendance totals.

Complete attendance figures for this year follow:

Performance	Attendance
"The Great Waltz" (10 performances)	86,290
"Babes in Toyland"	71,365
"Wild Violets"	70,151
"The Bartered Bride"	69,106
"Salute to Spring"	66,480
"Louise the Fourteenth"	63,733
"Robin Hood"	62,829
"Music in the Air"	60,921
"The Pink Lady"	60,174
"The Fortune Teller"	59,984
"The Prince of Fieslen"	52,884
(six performances)	51,001
"The Mikado"	51,001
"Babes in Toyland" (Victor Herbert opera, set a new record for a week's performances, beating the previous record of 71,032 attending Jerome Kern's "Roberta" in 1935)	71,032

Mr. Hunn, a grain broker, died yesterday of cancer at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Belleville. He was recuperating from an operation performed several weeks ago at St. Mary's Hospital in St. Louis when he suffered a relapse. He was 68 years old and had resided with his son, Arthur F. Hunn, at 605 Clara avenue.

The Council of State Governments has been working on the problem for several years and has now created an inter-level committee which will attempt to formulate a plan. Setting up a theory ought not to be difficult. Applying this practically will be another matter.

For not all the duplicating tax agencies are natural, and all, natural or artificial, have built up a horde of tax-eaters, living off the mechanism created by their jobs. Many are efficient in their work, though the system itself is extraordinarily complicated, unnecessary and inefficient.

The work of the council and its new committee is in itself a healthy sign of the taxpayers' revolt, the only revolution that is based on common sense and that can bring constructive results. The Council of State Governments is wisely taking the lead in the movement to bring order out of chaos.

The most important program before this country is permanent simplification of the tax system so that the capacity of our resources is fully understood and is not abused.

TWO PROPHECIES.
From the Baltimore Evening Sun.

THE word "democracy" hasn't been used in connection with Germany for a long time. But last Sunday, a Mr. Homeyer, addressing a gathering of German-Americans in St. Louis, said this about the future of Germany:

"Conditions had become such that apparently only dictatorship could restore soundness to the German nation. But it is only a matter of time until the German people will again enjoy democracy in the fullest sense of the word."

Try as we will, we can't find any evidence of progress toward democracy under Hitler. The concrete evidence all seems to point the other way. But Mr. Homeyer spoke with indubitable confidence. So perhaps, in the absence of concrete evidence, he has gone back to reading philosophy. If he has, he may have stumbled on the equally confident prophecy which was made recently by the Italian philosopher, Benedetto Croce:

"Supposing we assume that the worst will happen. The worst that can be envisaged is that the struggle which is today tearing the world asunder will culminate in the complete rout of liberty and the triumph of authoritarianism, even in the countries which have, up to this time, remained immune. Well, then, freedom will succumb, to be sure, but with the certainty that the process of acquiring it will have to begin all over again."

Well, then. There is the backing of a philosopher for Mr. Homeyer's venture into prophecy. The only trouble is that both Croce and Mr. Homeyer have failed to tell us how liberty and democracy will emerge from the dictatorships, and when. Both of these points are fairly important.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Married Saturday Afternoon

MR. and MRS. HARLOW P. WHITE
After their marriage at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack P. Fitzgerald, 7269 Maryland avenue. The bride was formerly Mrs. Inez Fitzgerald Brinkman.

Hobbs will depart for New York to enter the Bennett School, Millbrook, N. Y. Both young women were graduated from Mary Institute in June.

Miss Margaret Mudd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Mudd, 6918 Washington boulevard, landed in California Saturday after a month's visit in Honolulu following a trip around the world. She will join her mother at a cottage at Waialoa Lake, Mich., for the late summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis D. Seward Jr., 5257 Westminster place, who have been with Francis D. Seward Sr., at the Wynn Club, have gone to Wequetonsing, Mich., to be with Mrs. Seward's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Thompson of Ferguson, at their summer cottage. They will return to St. Louis soon after Labor day.

Miss Margaret Mudd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Mudd, 6918 Washington boulevard, landed in California Saturday after a month's visit in Honolulu following a trip around the world. She will join her mother at a cottage at Waialoa Lake, Mich., for the late summer.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Niedringhaus, 10 Westmoreland place, have recently arrived at Hot Springs, Va. Mr. and Mrs. Charles McLure Clark were among the guests at a cocktail party given a few days ago by Dr. and Mrs. David C. Morton of Richmond, Va.

Miss Sally Ann Currie, daughter of Mr. Dwight D. Currie, 6235 Pershing avenue, and Miss Helen McPeeters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel B. McPeeters, 4855 Maryland avenue, will leave about Sept. 20 for Poughkeepsie, N. Y., where they will be students at Vassar. Both girls were graduated from John Burroughs this spring. Miss McPeeters is now staying with Mrs. Currie and her daughter, while her parents and younger sister, Miss Phyllis McPeeters, are motoring through the East. Another sister, Miss Frances McPeeters, who will be a debutante this fall, is spending the summer on a ranch near Cowles, N. M.

Mr. Currie's son, Dwight, returned to St. Louis Saturday after traveling abroad this summer with William Kieble of Philadelphia, Pa. They returned on board the Hansa. Mr. Currie will leave about the middle of September for Haverford (Pa.), College. Mrs. Currie and her daughter spent the first part of the summer at Charlevoix, Mich.

Miss Bliss Morfit, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John C. Morfit, 5531 Clemens avenue, departed today for Rogers, Ark., to join Miss Warren Hobbs, who spent the week-end there with relatives. Together they will leave for Tulsa, Ok., to be the guests of Miss Hobbs' brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Cordell. From Tulsa they plan to go to Dallas and San Antonio, Tex., and probably to New Mexico. They will return about Sept. 10 and 10 days later Miss Dr. and Mrs. Kevin C. Morrin, 4929 West Pine boulevard, departed early today for a month's motor trip through the East. They plan to stop at Virginia Beach, Va. for several days and visit various other places of interest en route to Asheville, N. C., where they will be the last part of the trip. During the past month Dr. and Mrs. Morrin have been at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Gray, 114 Trevillian place, Webster Groves, while the Grays were out of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Reiner, 801 Stuart boulevard, returned from a month's motor trip through Yellowstone National Park. At Manitou, Colo., they visited with Mrs. Reiner's sister, Mrs. L. E. Baldwin.

Many pre-wedding parties are being planned for Miss Elizabeth Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Austyn Phillips, 643 Fairview avenue, Webster Groves, whose marriage to the Rev. John A. Lampe of Jerseyville, Ill., son of the Rev. William B. Lampe and Mrs. Lampe, 6 Thornby place, will take place Tuesday evening, Sept. 14, at 8:30 o'clock at the West Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. James Phelps and Mrs. Charles Reaser will entertain at a luncheon Tuesday afternoon at 54 Mason avenue, Webster Groves. Tuesday, Sept. 7, Miss Barbara Lampe, sister of the prospective bridegroom, will have a luncheon and swimming party at Bellevue Country Club. That evening Mrs. Charles Misura of Dallas, Tex., will entertain for the bride-elect at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Dunnagan, 7487 Kingsbury boulevard. The following afternoon Mrs. Louis F. Boeger, 7917 Cannon avenue, will honor Miss Phillips at a party.

Thursday, Sept. 9, Miss Helen Close, 7267 Cornell avenue, will entertain at a luncheon. Miss Joyce Moody will have a luncheon Friday, Sept. 10, at her home, 29 Plant avenue, Webster Groves, and in the evening Mrs. Nelson Moody Pope, 437 Mission court, will entertain at a dinner party. Miss Jane and Miss Helen Konesko will honor Miss Phillips at a bridge luncheon at their home, 6252 South Rosebury drive, Saturday, Sept. 11, Monday evening, Sept. 13, Willard Lampe will entertain the bride party at a dinner at Bellevue Country Club.

Mrs. Oscar A. Field, 6119 Kingsbury boulevard, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Emily, will depart this week for a late summer visit on the West Coast. En route they will visit the Grand Canyon. After spending several days with relatives at Beverly Hills, Cal., they will proceed by boat to San Francisco, returning home the latter part of the month.

Mrs. E. J. Leschen, 1132 Hampton Park drive, and her son, Jack Leschen, will return home today from an extended trip through the North and into Canada. They stopped a few days in New York and Washington on their return trip.

Miss Mary Alice Bailey, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Walter E. Bailey, 433 North Hanley road, has returned from Camp Ko Weeta, Fairburn, Ga., where she has been a junior counselor this summer.

Miss Edith Weiner, daughter of Dr. Meyer Wiener, 4609 Pershing avenue, and Miss Edna Edison, who have spent the summer at the Perry-Mansfield Camp, Steamboat Springs, Colo., are expected home in a few days. Both have been active in dramatics at the camp this summer.

Mrs. Anna McClain Sankey, 412 North Union boulevard, director of the department of speech at Webster College, has returned to St. Louis after visiting in the East this summer. Mrs. Sankey was in Chicago for eight weeks, enrolled in the School of Speech at Northwestern University.

Mrs. John T. Davenport, 7024 Kingsbury boulevard, with her three children, Peggy Ann, Nick and Jack, have returned home after a month's visit at Douglas, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Smith of the Warsaw road have recently joined the St. Louis contingent at Charlevoix, Mich., for the remainder of the season. They are stopping at the Belvedere Hotel.

Dakin Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Williams, 42 Aberdeen place, will spend the first week of next month on a Great Lakes cruise. He will visit Niagara Falls and the Great Lakes Exposition at Cleveland. He plans to enter Washington University in the fall.

Mrs. Charles E. Bowers, 5008 Vernon avenue, has returned home after a month spent in Canada and at Holland, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence L. Thole, 6609 Kingsbury boulevard, and their daughter, Marie Virginia, are vacationing at Flanders, L. I.

Funeral for Dr. William Rlenhoff.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 30.—Private funeral services were held today for Dr. William Rlenhoff, a surgeon for more than 50 years in Springfield, Mo. Dr. Rlenhoff died yesterday after an illness of several months. He was more than 80 years old. He retired from active practice in Missouri 10 years ago. He is survived by his son, Dr. William Rlenhoff Jr., associate professor of surgery at Johns Hopkins; a daughter, Mrs. Mary Richardson of Baltimore, and his wife.

MISS LENORE TAUSSIG BRIDE OF UNION AGENT

Marriage to Ted Graham in Whose Office She Worked Is Disclosed.

A romance which blossomed in the office of Local 20, International Association of Cleaning & Dye House Workers, at 4114A Easton avenue, resulted in the marriage last Wednesday of Miss Lenore P. Taussig, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Albert B. Taussig, 5538 Washington boulevard, and Ted Graham, business agent for the union and former organizer for the American Workers' Union, an unemployed group.

The former Miss Taussig has been employed as a secretary in the union office since last spring. The pair were married at the Marriage License Bureau in City Hall. The ceremony was performed by Justice of the Peace John Clooney, who was summoned by attorneys of the office.

Mrs. Graham, a graduate of the University of Michigan, said her parents had known of the wedding plans and gave approval. The bride, seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter at the union office, said she had not been acquainted with Graham before she began working there. She said she intended to continue at her duties at the office, but declined to say where she and her husband would reside. Graham has been staying in rooms at the office.

Graham is 34 years old, his bride 24. Son of a Chicago minister, for the last two years he has been active in various movements in St. Louis concerning labor and unemployment, and has been in police custody during investigations of violence.

A year ago he was in charge of a two-week camp for trade union leaders on the Mississippi River, north of St. Charles, sponsored by the St. Louis Labor College, of which he also was director. In 1935, when he was a freshman law student at the University of Missouri, he ran for Mayor of Columbia on the Socialist ticket.

URBAN LEAGUE SECRETARY DISCUSSES GROUP'S AIMS

Negro Problems, Including Misunderstanding, Given Attention, Says John T. Clark.

Higher standards of health and sanitation, preservation of residential neighborhoods and lessening of misunderstandings between white and Negro workers, were three of the major services which the Urban League, a United Charities agency, hoped to bring to St. Louis' Negro population, John T. Clark, executive secretary of the League, said yesterday in a radio talk.

Clark said many desirable vocational opportunities were closed to Negroes, and that some labor unions have adopted what he termed an unfair attitude toward the problems of Negro workers. The Urban League is attempting, through its industrial service, to educate Negroes to the advantages of organization and the desirability of increased co-operation between Negroes and whites.

SISTER MARY CLARA SILLS DIES

Funeral for Veteran Teacher to Be Held Wednesday.

Funeral services for Sister Mary Clara Sills, a member of the School Sisters of Notre Dame for 50 years, who died of cancer yesterday at Villa Gesu, the order's retreat, will be held Wednesday at 8:30 a. m. at the Villa Gesu Chapel, with burial in the cemetery there.

Sister Mary Clara, who was 78 years old, had been an invalid for about a year. She had served for the last 30 years as secretary to the Mother Superior at the Maria Ripa Convent, in Luxemburg. She was supervisor of the order's schools in nearby Illinois cities.

DR. CHARLES THWING, NOTED EDUCATOR, DIES

President Emeritus of Western Reserve U. Succumbs in Cleveland at 83

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 30.—Dr. Charles Franklin Thwing, president emeritus of Western Reserve University, died yesterday at his home here. He had been in failing health several years. He was 83 years old.

Dr. Thwing was widely known as an author, lecturer and educator. Before coming to Cleveland he was pastor of the North Avenue Church in Cambridge, Mass., and of Plymouth Church in Minneapolis. He is survived by three daughters.

For 31 years he administered the academic affairs of Western Reserve, retiring in 1921, not because he considered himself unable to continue, but "because it is not given to any man to bridge successfully two generations."

He was born at New Sharon, Me., Nov. 9, 1853, was graduated from Harvard in 1876 and Andover Theological Seminary in 1879. An ordained Congregational minister, he served in the pulpit 11 years before going to Cleveland as president of Western Reserve College.

He was perhaps among the last of the "personal" presidents of American universities. As active in the school and, after his retirement, as president emeritus, Dr. Thwing was at any time likely to hear a sophomore like the "Hi! prexy!" as he crossed the campus.

He wrote nearly half a hundred books. In his list were "Letters of a Father to His Son, Entering College," and a companion work of letters to a daughter. Other widely known works were "Education and Religion" and "Guides, Philosophers and Friends."

A year after his retirement Dr. Thwing went to South America to study the educational system there. In 1922 also he was elected national president of Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity, serving three years. In 1931 he was elected a life senator of the organization.

Dr. Thwing was twice married. His first wife, nee Carrie F. Butler, to whom he was wed in September, 1879, died in April 1898. Their children were Mary Butler Thwing (Mrs. J. M. Shallenberger); Francis Wendell Butler-Thwing and Apphia (Mrs. Roy K. Hack). In December, 1906, Dr. Thwing was married to Mary Gardner Dunning.

Classicism, as stern and stark as the letters upon which it was founded, formed the nucleus of Dr. Thwing's academic beliefs. His often expressed opinion was that there could be no substitute, however modern, for Greek and Latin.

CARDINAL BISLETI DIES AT 81 IN ROME

Succumbs to Bronchial Pneumonia—Announced Election of Pope Pius XI.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Aug. 30.—Gaetano, Cardinal Bisleti, died tonight from bronchial pneumonia. He was 81 years old.

The Cardinal, who as dean of Cardinal-Deacons in 1922 announced the election of Pope Pius XI from the balcony of St. Peter's, had been ill for 10 days. A short time before he died at 7:45 p. m. the Pope had sent him a special blessing and had granted absolution.

After learning of the Cardinal's death, the Pope went to his private chapel and prayed for the soul of the noble family of the Marchesi Bisleti. Because of this he was enabled to become a member of the Knights of Malta, attaining the rank of grand prior of the order.

Born in Veroli, March 20, 1856, he studied in the Tivoli College and then at Capranica College, Rome. From there he passed to the Academy of the Ecclesiastical Nobles, where he was graduated in philosophy and theology.

In 1884, Pope Leo XIII made the young priest his secret chamberlain, a position which Father Bisleti held for 16 years. Then he became master of the chamber, the golden jubilee, Father Bisleti handled the thousands of pilgrims who came from all parts of the world to see the Pope.

Sad Mistake By Ely Culbertson

BAD bid is not as bad as a silly bid. All of us, from time to time, become slightly distorted in our judgment of trick-taking possibilities; since we are not machines, such lapses must be condoned. There is one type of bid, however, for which there is no excuse—that is, a bid which is pointless. Such a bid as East made in the hand shown below.

The bidding (East-West vulnerable): South West North East 1 spade pass 2 no trumps 3 hearts 4 diamonds pass 5 spades pass 6 spades pass pass When East made his vulnerable three heart bid, he unwittingly played directly into the opponents' hands. East probably felt that since the opponents had not doubled he had escaped scot-free. In this he was very much mistaken.

Declarer ruffed the opening heart lead and on the assurance that East was marked with a long line of hearts, since he could have no other values for his bid, naturally decided to play West for long spades. He therefore led the nine and let it ride, following this with a finesse to dummy's ten. West's spades were then easily picked up and the contract became a laydown, declarer graciously conceding a club trick at the finish.

East's three-heart bid was not atrocious, judged by the standard of taking tricks, although as a matter of fact it did risk a severe penalty. The prime objection to it is that it was futile. South had shown the strength of an opening bid, at least. West had been unable to overcall or double. North had shown decided strength with his two no trump response. What good could a three-heart bid do? If East were so fortunate as to find West with some heart support and enough general strength to either stand or raise three hearts, was it conceivable that the nonvulnerable opponents would surrender? On the other hand, if the opponents liked the heart bid they could at their discretion double it and defeat it anywhere from two to four tricks. So all that East was doing when he bid three hearts was to advertise great heart length and thus provide South, the eventual declarer, with a splendid blue print of the situation. Had East remained discreetly silent, South might very easily have gone astray in his play of the hand.

Today's Question. Question: Bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1 heart pass 2 What should South bid, holding: K Q 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2? Answer: South should bid three hearts, to set the trump suit and pave the way for North to make asking bids.

The Accidental Poisonings of Little Children

Guard Against This by Keeping Dangerous Drugs Under Lock and Key.

By Angelo Patri

AN accident is something that nobody expects to happen. Children are bound to have their share of them because of their ignorance and inexperience. We have to be on guard to protect them at every hazardous point and even then they get into trouble. But there is one field of danger that we must doubly guard against and that is the accidental poisoning of children, who find bottles or boxes containing poisons and sample them.

Of course all such things ought to be kept under lock and key, well out of reach. It is not enough to put dangerous things on high shelves because that only tempts children to climb up for them. Nor is it enough to put them in the medicine closet and say, "Don't touch." The thing to do is to make it impossible to "touch." Lock the things away and put the key where they know nothing about it.

It is just as well to make no point about touching these dangerous things. When we call attention to forbidden things we increase childish interest in them. The less said about prohibited things the better. Keep them out of sight and they are more likely to be out of mind.

It probably was in Variety, and what it wasn't... It is the column's idea of a nifty... Frank Craven, it appears, was approached by a neophyte writer, who showed the star his new movie script for "an honest criticism"... Mr. Craven gave it his scornful, partly when he reached some of the dialogue... "Oh, I'm afraid it escapes you," explained the chap, "I wonder if you realize that it is just a little whimsy?"... "Mebbe it is," said Craven, "but what you gotta have in pictures is whamsy!"

There may have been stiffer squelches, but we can't recall them... The time a movie critic said of a new cinema exploited as costing the studio over one million dollars... "They have a fortune in this new picture," he wrote, "if they cut it up and sell it for mandolin picks!"

Nick, the Greek, one of the most colorful characters on both coasts, is best known for his disregard of money when he is in the mood to play with dice, cards or name your game... One night he dropped $40,000 betting against the cubes and went over to an open window to enjoy some fresh air... When he came away from it, a stranger in the place invited Nick to a game of casino... "I don't gamble," said the fellow, "let's make it two-bits a game..." The Greek played him five games, winning the quintet, plus $125... "Gee," said the loser, "you're the luckiest guy!"

Then there's the one about the fellow who complained of the excessive heat the other day, when the thermometer read 90... "It isn't hot, brother," comforted a war correspondent just back from Ethiopia, "until the chair gets up when you do!"... And a nameless contributor wrote those movies (that are packed with romance) as "mushy pictures"... Overheard in a mid-town night spot: "After giving me a play for three months, he now tells me he's married!"... "I still like the one about the absent-minded quick change artist"... He was riding in the subway when the lights suddenly went out... When they came on two seconds later—he was half naked!... I'm an easy audience, anyway.

New York is probably crowded with specialists of one sort or another, but Harold Seton's business is different... He has the largest collection of photo. of society and stage people in the world, perhaps... Began collecting them decades ago... Thus, when you see the Big Town photo sections devoted to the elite as they appeared years ago—the source invariably is Seton... He doesn't sell them—he rents them—at a fair enough tariff for the whole enterprise began in a most unpretentious way... He started the valuable collection by saving those tiny likenesses of well-knowns your pop used to get with each package of Sweet Caprice.

One of the hinterland society reporters is a little mixed up in his reporting of "ow the society phrase, 'The 400,' was created"... If we recall correctly, it was invented by Ward McAllister in 1889... Now, please, don't interrupt me, Cholly, until I end the paragraph... McAllister was Manhattan's arbiter of all matters upper. Mrs. William Astor and the Smart Set regarded him as an authority on fashionable doings,

Vaccination As Preventive Of Smallpox

Marked Improvement in Preparation of Vaccine Made in Last Few Years.

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

LAST summer I went into St. George's Hospital, London, to see a cow's hide. There it was, the entire skin of a brindle cow, even including the legs, stretched out at full length, in a frame on the wall of the pathological laboratory.

That animal had once belonged to Edward Jenner of Gloucestershire, and from it, about 150 years ago, he took the first cow lymph which he used to perform vaccination.

In the very first person ever vaccinated the lymph was taken from a cow pux postulated on the hand of a human, a dairymaid named Sarah Nelmes. But when Jenner began to use animal lymph, this cow was supply No. 1. Jenner, who always knew the importance of his discovery, refused the historical value of the animal, and when she died had her skinned. One day not long before his death he showed the skin to his first biographer, Baron. It was kept in a loft in his barn. Even Jenner's biographer, when it came to St. George's Hospital, where it was put under glass and preserved. Probably it will not be there long; St. George's will have to move soon, and the physicians in the laboratory opined that if that frame were moved the old vaccine boss's hide would crumble to dust.

Well, it's a long story that stems from that hide. When the bovine, whose facade it was, peacefully cropped the verdure of a Gloucestershire meadow, smallpox ran through the countryside like an ever-present flame. Little children went blind from it, and the blind asylums counted half their inmates as victims of smallpox.

Then the rumor grew that dairymaids who contracted a pustular eruption on their hands from the eruption on the teats of cows—the cow pox, a mild disease of humans—could catch the smallpox even if exposed. Edward Jenner was the first person who systematically tested this idea out. In 1798 he had accumulated enough data to be able to recommend the method to the world.

THE world was so terrified of smallpox that it accepted the method with enthusiasm. There was some little dissent—it did seem a queer thing that you could prevent one disease by giving a person another, but the dissent was around you and no pleasant disease, either, striking down your neighbors and your friends, you took a chance.

Far more willing than when smallpox was so common that now you must be persuaded by faith on the basis of your intellect. "Future nations," Thomas Jefferson wrote to Jenner, in 1806, "will know by history only that the loathsome smallpox has existed and by you has been exterminated."

The arguments from history are convincing. The best is the German experience. In 1874 Germany passed a compulsory vaccination law. By 1897 its effects were noticeable, and during the early years of this century long periods passed without a single death from smallpox. In the huge German army there were two deaths from smallpox from 1874 to 1914. Then an unvaccinated population began to enter its borders, and the excitement of war disarranged the public health control, and smallpox, and the civil war, chiefly in those who had been vaccinated more than 25 years previously.

Within the last few years marked improvement in the preparation of smallpox vaccine has been made. In 1891 Monckton Compton found that the virus was purified and preserved with glycerin. But now we get our virus from an unborn chicken, and the safety of the vaccine is practically complete.

During the first six months or a year is the desirable age for the first vaccination. Revaccination is successful in 88 per cent of cases after the tenth year.

The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Looking for a Silver Lining In the Clouds

Something Lovely May Be Hidden in Darkness of Adversity, Says Writer.

By Elsie Robinson

IF I were to read the mail these days I should find hundreds of discouraged letters. Weary, resentful humans, struggling, scrimping, wondering what it's all about, when it will end.

Here's one this morning. A brave, intelligent spirit drove that rebellious pen:

"I'm willing to look for the silver lining in any cloud, but is there any silver lining in this one? What's the use of all this suffering and humiliation? Maybe some need to learn to work and sweat, but we didn't. For 10 years my husband and I have lived thrifty, industrious lives. We never loafed, or wasted. We were proud and happy and now—this. Everything we saved has gone. We are dressed like beggars, living from hand to mouth. They say there's 'blessing in adversity' but where is the blessing in this?"

I wonder. I've asked that plenty of times myself. Tramping hot pavements in ragged shoes, looking in through restaurant windows at food I could not buy, until I drooled with nausea—I've asked that same question. Could any blessing come out of my adversity? I didn't believe it.

Yet now, looking back, I keep thinking about that story my friend told me about her night trip along Puget Sound. She had been out mobbing, through July June days, up and down the country roads of Oregon. Someone told her about a garden. No stopping car as she heard of the garden. She had to see it that night. Four hours off. They could make it by 10.

UT the weather had taken a nasty twist. Over the horizon a storm was boiling up. The twilight went out in a sudden squall of black rain. The night flung itself upon them like a bat. In 10 minutes the road, which had been Sound, was a quaking smear of mud.

Below, there was that vicious lip and mumble of angry water. Now and then, between a scud of cloud, they'd glimpse a twisting grayness—see a wave upflung—snatching at them. Then the blackness would shut down again. The wind would go on howling, squating its dead weight on the running board, playing at the curtains. A back tire would spin off into nothingness... For an instant, there'd be silence, like a great cough—with the slight waiving and the water waiting, far below.

It was midnight before they found the farm, and a sleepy, frightened woman let them in through a grudging door. Garden? They'd forgotten there were such things as gardens... forgotten everything but that snatching terror at their heels.

Six hours' sleep and they turned back, through a morning, classed bright as a daisy wreath. Green grass translated in a web of silver light. Puddles, clear as bits of broken glass, cupping blueness in their black earth frame. Around the bend the tall, pale spires of blossom, ringed with yellow butterflies—with the Sound spreading its quiet heliostere between the jade-green stems.

When a man really loves his home, he will find that there is lots of housework that he can do without lowering his standing as a man. Making a living and making a home are two jobs—and no woman can do them both successfully. But a man and a woman working together can do it beautifully. And that's what makes a happy modern co-educational marriage!

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

Dear Miss Carr: COULD you tell how I could find anyone in Tennessee and Arkansas if I didn't know their address or the town? D. L. W.

This, I am afraid, would be rather a difficult task if you do not know the town, nor whether in Tennessee or Arkansas, but your local postoffice may be able to help you. While the U. S. Federal Bureau of Investigation does no active work toward finding missing persons, they will keep the name on file and may be able to come across some. Write the Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Department of Justice, Washington, D. C.

Dear Martha Carr: WILL you please print the address of Kate Smith in your column? M. C.

Write her care of Columbia Broadcasting Co., New York City.

Dear Martha Carr: WOULD you be so kind as to settle a disagreement among several of my friends? It seems we have taken sides of where a boy should walk when with two girls—the outside or the middle. I believe the boy should walk on the outside at all times. Is this correct or do I lose a bet? S. R. vs. K. H.

If you wish to adhere to the strict formality, you win. The boy should walk on the outside.

Dear Martha Carr: I HAVE been a reader of your column for as long as I can remember and have always admired your frank and appealing answers to every-day problems. Now I am asking your aid for a needy old lady who has been an invalid for the past four years. If this old lady had a wheel chair she would be able to get about and move from one room to another instead of lying constantly on the bed. She cannot afford to buy one as she does not even have the necessities of life, so if one of your readers could get that for me, I would greatly appreciate having them give it to this old lady. The sunshine and cheer this chair would bring into her life would, I am sure, be enough for the giver. Thank you for your kindness in publishing this and wishing you continued success. HOPING.

Dear Mrs. Carr: WOULD you please read the letter contributed by a girl in your column referring to herself as "St. Louis Miss" and the injustice done to the boys is appalling. I am sure she is probably judging all the boys by the very few who are known. The majority of the boys in St. Louis are fine fellows. We have seen quite a few girls to whom a copy of Emily Post's book of etiquette might come in handy. Most girls expect too much of a boy in this day. Manners have suffered so much from both sides that we do not think either side has any "kick" coming.

SIX SENSIBLE SONS.

WILL you please tell me where I can take a course in floral designing? I would prefer a night school but if there are none, where could I take a day course? Are there any special requirements for the course? DORIS JUNE.

As far as I know, there are no courses of this nature, but I suggest you inquire at one of the large floral shops.

Dear Mrs. Carr: COULD you please tell me just how many hours a night-woman is supposed to work? THANKFUL.

I think this is a matter to be settled by agreement between you and your employer.

Dear Martha Carr: COULD you tell me something about short story writing? In what form should it be typed, written, pages numbered, etc.? Would you supply a publisher's name or tell me where I might find one? Thank you. G. E.

Your name and address should appear in the upper left-hand corner of the first page. The story should be typed on one side of the paper, and the pages should be numbered. I am not permitted to give you the names of publishers but would suggest you write to the different magazines. Too, you can get a Writers' Guide at any of the larger newsstands.

Dear Mrs. Carr: WHEN does a girl become of age in Missouri? Is it the age of age to marry or vote, but her own boss. Is it the same in Illinois and Kansas? MOLLY S.

When a girl is 18 years old she is considered of age. I believe you will find this the same in both Illinois and Kansas.

Letters intended for this column should be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Please give interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

For Tuesday, Aug. 31. ALL Thursday: the possible to co-operate with those older. Today: A. M. favors mental effort on new items. Afternoon and evening call for care in money matters. Check the emotions at least every half hour today.

Lasting Power. The mysteries of which Plato spoke were taught to only a few. He was an intimate, as were most of the great minds of the earth when conditions were favorable to their existence. The mysteries were those keys to inner knowledge by which man can rise to the wisdom which is the only real and lasting power which he can develop. We must find and use those keys.

“I’m not wrong, am I?”
 “No, you’re not,” I replied, pleased in being the first but I will certainly try to be the second! Your question (1) is a brand-new one, but I’ll do my best with it: You really are not supposed to pick up a piece of watercress in your fingers, and if you do, you would pick up a leaf of lettuce or a quarter of a tomato, and yet the real reason against picking up these items is that they are usually covered with dressing. But if they have no dressing, then, of course, there is not an unreasonable reason why they should not be rated with celery and radishes! Seriously, why not? Very especially why not in your own house? At a dinner party I would, if I were you, restrain my fingers. (2) I don’t think you should stop putting the wrapping from the lump of sugar on the tablecloth. If you want to be neat, you can fold it up flat rather than crunch it, and then lay it on the tablecloth, certainly. Putting it on the floor is certainly in the way of the spoon, just as is the paper, and unless you keep your spoon without an atom of coffee on it, the paper would get soiled and horrid, and certainly no piece of etiquette could approve of your setting the paper on the floor. (3) I have only no objection to your pressing your mint down with your spoon any more than to press your sugar down with your spoon to make it neat. That much, strictest rules of etiquette will grant you. Personally I like ice tea, and I like to press in the kitchen because I like a large press of mint put in the top of the glass, so that as you drink your tea your nose is buried in the mint. But this is only my opinion.

INVESTIGATION IN MINE AREA
MAY BE HALTED

HARLAN, Ky. — Congressman Frisby, who has spent the entire week here investigating charges that the mine operators are using strip-tease artists to prevent workers from attending CIO meetings, is in no mood to brook interference. Warned by the night marshal to refrain from singing on street corners after midnight, Congressman Frisby dared local authorities to institute marshal law. Accused of being intoxicated, Mr. Frisby asked for an opportunity to have a hot cup of coffee before making any official reply. He was escorted to an all night restaurant where he bumped his head on a coffee cup. Later he announced that he would demand that the authorities pay for dry cleaning his necktie which inadvertently fell into his coffee, remaining there until a late hour.

Although he would not say "Yes" and he would not say "No," in fact he would say nothing, even when shaken by the shoulder, it is believed that Congressman Frisby will abruptly terminate his investigation upon the arrival of Mrs. Frisby, who is said to have promised to arrive by bus and take charge of the situation.

SOME OF THE FIRST AUTOS EVER MADE WERE SO MUCH LIKE CARRIAGES THAT THEY EVEN HAD WHIP-SOCKETS

When early auto builders started making cars, they made the bodies look like carriages. In fact, earliest models were rebuilt from horse-drawn vehicles by substituting an engine for the horse and hooking the engine to the wheels with a few gears and a loop of chain. Frequently, in the newer models, the builders provided whip sockets—although it may be that due to the frequent breakdowns necessitating the use of real horse power to get home, the whip socket was more handy than in the way. A few early autos with whip sockets are still in existence in old auto collections.

NURSE

Maida Learns From Stanley That Norine's Hospital Escort, Gerald Pryde, Is a Woman-Hater.

CHAPTER TWELVE.

YOUNG DUGGAN, who was progressing rapidly and almost ready to leave the hospital, had developed a romantic attachment for Maida. He was only a boy, as Maida realized when he told her a dream he had had, in which he rescued her from a band of cut-throats and galloped away with her on his horse; but Maida was not able to keep herself from a snobbish feeling of annoyance at the thought that while Stanley courted the boss' daughter the chauffeur was in love with her.

Yet she could not snub the boy, he was so honest and simple and so unconscious of offense. Nevertheless, she was glad when Duggan told her that he was going home the next day.

"Miss Norine, she's going to take me home in her car, and her beau."

Maida was on pins and needles. Could Stanley be coming here? It would be amusing if, while acting as assistant to Lady Bountiful, he should meet his sister and have to introduce her.

"I didn't know she was engaged," she answered Duggan, hoping he would volunteer the man's name. It could hardly be anyone but Stanley, yet Maida could not see why Stanley should deliberately come to the hospital where she was, when a short time ago he had been anxious to keep Norine in ignorance of the fact that she was a nurse. Perhaps he was more sure of her now.

"She don't exactly go steady with him, Miss Connell, but he's her beau all right. You see, he lives out of town, but Miss Norine told me herself she was going to marry him some day if it took a leg."

What a common little thing Norine must be, to discuss her love affairs with a chauffeur! Maida flushed, for she herself had been doing worse; she had been pumping that same chauffeur to find out if it were Stanley who would be Norine's escort when they came to take him home.

"It was crazy of me to say she was common, even to myself," thought Maida. She could imagine the spoiled, impulsive girl, perhaps seeing the man off at the station, and after he had gone, turning to Duggan, laughing and blushing, "He's wonderful! I'm going to marry him if it takes a leg!"

"He's a swell fellow, too. You know Mr. Pryde, the one that come with her last time." Well, that sounded bad for Stanley. He should have looked up the history of this prospect of his, found out about the prior attachment, before he tried to sell her on his not too important self. Certainly no girl in her right senses would prefer Stanley to Mr. Pryde. Why, he was the sort girls dream about. Very fit, with bronzed skin and patrician features, his impeccable clothes carelessly worn, quiet, yet with a personality that compelled attention. Was he in love with Norine? He might marry anyone at all; surely he would not fall for a gauche kid like her.

She could not help watching the two together as they came to take Duggan home, although, for some reason she herself hardly understood, she took pains to keep out of their way while the beaming Duggan was getting ready for departure. Mr. Pryde did not pay much attention to Norine. He let her babble on, with the indulgent smile of an elder brother, but he took their way while the conversation and his eyes wandered about the ward as if he were interested in the inmates. Maida, who had ducked into the utility room when she saw them coming, now found it expedient to duck again, for it was time for Miss Halverson to return from her hours off duty. She emerged from the door and almost ran into Duggan and his two patrons. "Good-by, Miss Connell," sang out Duggan.

NORINE nodded, and the princely Mr. Pryde bowed and said in a low voice, "Good-by, Miss Connell." Then he smiled and was gone. Darn it all! A nice memory he would have of her, standing awkward and tongue-tied. She stewed about it for 10 minutes before she happened to think he would hardly bother to remember her and somehow that consideration was no much comfort to her. Maida and Stanley were returning from a frugal soda at Lieb's that night when they met Dr. Gillespie near the door of the nurses' home. "Hello, there," he greeted Maida with enthusiasm. "I've been looking for you. Just left a message for you at the desk. Will you go to my fraternity dance tomorrow?" "I don't know," said Maida doubtfully. She had not seen or heard of Dr. Gillespie for weeks and she did not propose to fall on his neck because he had a whim to look her up. "You're not sore because I asked you late, are you? As a matter of fact, it isn't for myself I'm asking you. Er—you see, I'm tied up with a friend of my sister's in the city. But it's going to be a swell party, really. It's our annual costume ball."

Bert had been poking Maida violently while Dr. Gillespie talked. "For Pete's sake, Bert, why are you poking me?" she said at last. "All right, Connell, you would spoil it when I was trying to be ladylike and diplomatic. I was trying to make you wake up. Of course she'll go, Dr. Gillespie. She is a little dumb, but excuse it, please. I am trying to educate her. It's a big honor to be asked to that costume ball, so don't be too snooty."

"I'm awfully relieved," said Dr. Gillespie, taking her consent for granted now. "A fellow I knew in college showed up this afternoon. I didn't know he was in town. It seems he has seen you somewhere, or heard of you, and he wanted me to get you to go to this dance with him. I guess that was why he hunted me up."

"And what a lot of applause that is," remarked Maida after Dr. Gillespie had gone on. "I suppose the friend is a terrible egg and he doesn't want me to suspect it."

"What do you care?" asked Bert. "You are going to the dance, anyway. Haven't you heard about the medical fraternity ball? The internes are so high and mighty about it that they almost never ask any nurse. Sure, nurses are all right for their informal parties, but they invite girls from the city and the more debutant the better. Snobs! They will only be two or three from the whole training school there. I'm glad we will have one more representative."

Bert spread the news and Maida was showered with amazed congratulations. "Not the big costume party? My dear, I never heard of anything so wonderful. How did you do it? Does one blackmail Gillespie, or any little thing like that?"

Maida herself began to get excited over it. She dashed home in her hours off duty, foregoing lunch to gain 30 minutes and hoping that Stanley would be there to drive her back to the hospital. She had to find a costume of some sort, or order one sent out from a costumer. In matters of dress she could count on her mother's wholehearted sympathy and attention. Mrs. Connell loved a party and it was never too late when Maida got home for Mrs. Connell to call her into the bedroom and ask about the details. And since Maida had been going to dances her mother had never watched her put on the pretty party dress and wave goodbye from the front door without thinking romantically. "Maybe she will meet someone tonight. This boy she is going with is a mere nobody, but maybe someone new and handsome and rich will be there."

Mrs. Connell was given to these girlish imaginings. She was than Maida, who openly scoffed, but hope springs eternal in a mother's breast and Mrs. Connell was thrilled when she learned that Maida was going with a "blind" date.

"Oh, mother, he's probably terrible, or they wouldn't have had any trouble finding a girl for him. Forget about him and let's go to the attic and take up my costume. How about that old gypsy dress I used to wear?"

"Oh, that's too common, Maida. Let me see—"

"I might go as a bathing girl of 1905. Did you have actually wear this costume, mother?"

"It was much later than that. How old do you think I am? No, you can't wear that. Don't be so stiff. You have to wear those horrid stiff uniforms all day. I should think you would like a pretty costume."

STANLEY joined them and remained to laugh over the hodgepodge they pulled from the old trunks. They had decided nothing when Maida, with a startled glance at her watch, jumped up and began to dust off her clothes.

"I can't stay another minute, and unless Stanley will be an angel and drive me to the hospital I'll have to get a taxi."

"But what about your dress? You can't go off like that. Call up a costumer and have him send something to the hospital. Let's see, tell him a Columbine. They always have those on hand, and if it isn't novel it is always pretty. Good-bye, mother. You'll get it there surely, won't you?"

It was the first time she had ridden in Stanley's new car, and she thoroughly enjoyed the luxury of it.

"What a grand car, Stanley! It must have set you back a lot. How is the money holding out?"

"Well, to tell the truth, Maida, the new mbus have been chasing him for years but he never bats an eye. I suppose he will marry some time, a suitable fortune picked out by his papa, but he really has a hate on the whole sex."

"Sounds like an old-fashioned novel. Was he disappointed in love?"

"I guess he had a few raw experiences. You know—rich man's snobs? They suffer a lot from a certain kind of woman."

It was not easy to imagine Mr. Pryde as a gullible boy, thought Maida, but she could imagine that, once aroused, his resentment might be impressive.

The Need of Good Deeds
For Full Life

By The Rev. J. F. Newton

IN ancient Florence, in the days of Savonarola, the mighty preacher, the hearts of men were deeply stirred. Touched by the sad lot of the poor, they opened "The Bank of Piety," where money could be borrowed at low rates of interest. What a name for a bank!

Later, as the flaming eloquence melted their hearts, the people kindled a "Bonfire of the Vanities." What a picture—men bringing the trills of fashion, the gewgaws of pride and show, and burning them in the chief square of the city, vowing to live more simply!

In the same city there were the Brothers Misericordia, who went about masked, not bandits, but ministers of mercy disguised, helping those in dire need. They kept their robes and masks in a chapel, in locked and numbered drawers, hidden even from their fellow workers.

Each put on his robe and mask by day or night, lest his neighbors in distress see his face and know him in his garb. "Poetry is religion no longer believed in," says Santayana, but surely he is wrong. After all, religion may be just poetry acted out in life!

When, in the same era, the city of Siena was under temporary interdict for some offense, a citizen out of devotion to his city carried a tiny model of the city hall under his cloak, so that when he got a blessing for himself he got it also for the city he loved.

If only we had such poetic city-mindedness today, our cities might be cleaner and kinder. How much we need poetry in life, not simply as a decoration, but as beauty in our daily living. So many lovely acts are marred because they are clumsy.

It is not enough to be experts in knowing what is good to do; we must be artists in the way we do it. Even a simple deed, if done with taste and tact and skill, is a thing of beauty, if it is only a gesture of courtesy, or the giving of a cup of cool water.

What a pity to do a beautiful thing in an ugly way. The ancient prayer was wise: "Let the beauty of the Lord, our God, be upon us." (Copyright, 1937.)

Screen Enamel
Why not paint the window screens with a coat of screen enamel after cleaning them preparatory to storing this fall? It will protect them from rust through the winter months and it certainly will be pleasant to get out perfect screens next spring when there are so many jobs to be done at one time.

frankly, "I should think you would worry about him. No girl in her right senses would take you when she could get a man like that."

"See you!" retorted Stanley. "Well, the point is, she can't get him. He has no use for women. Drove the best have been chasing him for years but he never bats an eye. I suppose he will marry some time, a suitable fortune picked out by his papa, but he really has a hate on the whole sex."

"Sounds like an old-fashioned novel. Was he disappointed in love?"

"I guess he had a few raw experiences. You know—rich man's snobs? They suffer a lot from a certain kind of woman."

It was not easy to imagine Mr. Pryde as a gullible boy, thought Maida, but she could imagine that, once aroused, his resentment might be impressive.

LOYALISTS SHIFT

Valencia Troops Maneuver to Isolate Strong Rebel Detachments in Teruel Spearhead—Capture of Belchite Expected.

By the Associated Press.
HENDAYE, French-Spanish
Border, Aug. 31.—Both the insurgent and Valencia Government forces claimed to have made notable advances today in heavy fighting in the Aragon sector.

Gen. Francisco Franco said his forces had broken through the loyalist lines near Zuera, north of Zaragoza.

Government troops claimed to have made advances in the fighting south of Zaragoza, where strong Government units have made smashing attacks to drive a wedge through Franco's long Aragon salient and cut off the lower end, pointed by Teruel, from which an insurgent army for weeks has menaced the vital Madrid-Valencia highway.

The Valencia Defense Ministry said the counterattacks were being repulsed while the Government forces closed in on Belchite. It said foreign legations and Madrid in Franco's ranks had suffered heavy losses at Villamayor in the Zaragoza sector.

Government Shifts Strategy.
The Government command has apparently shifted the strategy that marked the recent sanguinary battles on the Aragon front. Instead of the capture of Zaragoza, the loyalists were maneuvering to isolate the strong insurgent detachments in the Teruel spearhead.

Earlier insurgent dispatches declared that differences between the Madrid-Valencia forces and allied Catalan troops had caused a breakdown of the Zaragoza drive and its degeneration into a series of scattered, small attacks.

While insurgent columns continued their cleanup in the vicinity of Santander, on the Bay of Biscay, Gen. Gonzalo Queipo de Llano, Franco's radio chief, criticized the Government's description of the capture of Santander last week as an Italian victory.

Points to Telegrams.
Telegrams of felicitation between Franco and Benito Mussolini of Italy, Queipo de Llano said, were the best evidence that the campaign had been directed by Franco and his northern aid, Gen. Fidel Davila.
"Italian generals participated only as assistants to the Spanish commanders," the radio officer said.

MONTPELIER, France, Aug. 31.—
Two large shells, apparently fired from the sea, fell into the village of Fontanille close to large supply tanks of industrial gasoline yesterday. The projectiles landed in open ground and caused no damage.
